WPA PURGE AID JOLTS HOPKINS AND ROOSEVELT

Reliefers Join Drive to Beat O'Connor.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Reports from New York City of a campaign there to solicit $50,000 from WPA workers created a stir in the summer White House here today. The money is to be used in the effort to purge Representative John J. O'Connor, chairman of the house rules committee, from the Democratic party. O'Connor represents the 16th district in New York.

President Roosevelt called for the purge last week, denouncing O'Connor as one of the most effective obstructionists in either house of congress. Yesterday the Workers' alliance, a union of WPA workers, announced that $50,000 would be collected from the relief workers and invested in the campaign against O'Connor.

This zeal in behalf of the President's attempted purge proved embarassing to him and to Harry L. Hopkins, head of the Works Progress administration. Hopkins was a visitor at the Roosevelt estate in the rôle of political adviser. He and Mr. Roosevelt were plotting the course of the purge during the coming months when word came of the Workers' alliance announcement.

Hopkins Tries Soft Pedal.

Hopkins immediately sought to soften the reaction which might be expected to this open declaration of soliciting contributions to the purge from those on relief. Inasmuch as the alliance is composed of the workers themselves, "contributions would be, in effect, assessments.

"I don't like to see any outfit do that," Hopkins told reporters, referring to the alliance announcement. "I am against any political contributions being solicited from WPA workers. They've got little enough as it is and that ought to go for food, shelter, and clothing."

Hopkins added, however, that there was nothing illegal in the Workers' alliance plan.

"I don't know that anything can be done about it," he added.

In Sympathy with Program.

"Despite all the talk that has gone on," he declared, "nobody anywhere in the United States has ever lost a WPA job because of the way he voted, and nobody is going to. That goes for all the states where so much investigating is going on."

When a few eyebrows were lifted at Hopkins' assertions he added:

"Of course I personally am in sympathy with the President's program and of course also I am not going to appoint any one in a supervisory capacity in the WPA who is not in sympathy with the program. But politics has nothing to do with the workers on the pay rolls."

Obviously fearful that the New York collection drive may arouse nationwide resentment, Hopkins repeated, again and again

"I don't like it. I don't think it should be done."

Senate Group to Investigate.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] said today he would lay before the senate campaign expenditures committee published reports that the Workers' Alliance had appealed to WPA workers for political contributions.

Sheppard said that under the committee's interpretation of section 208 of the criminal code it would be unlawful for a congressional candidate to receive money contributed by a person receiving compensations from the federal treasury.

Thus, he said, while the Workers' Alliance might legally collect political contributions from WPA workers, such money could not be used directly or indirectly to further the chances of a congressional candidate

Set About Smoothing Path to United States Senate

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The road to the senate will be smoother next year. Crews went to work today removing bumps from the 770 foot underground railway linking the senate office building with the capitol.

WOMAN POLICY SELLER FORCED TO JOIN GANG

Dewey, Judge Clash at Hines Trial.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Gussie Silverman, a plump woman who plucked nervously at the pattern of her robin's egg blue dress, testified about the changeable attitude of the police. This came as the second week of the conspiracy trial conducted by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey began before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

Mrs. Silverman, who ran a policy game bank from her laundry store, testified that the police entered her store every day and sometimes twice a day searched it until she agreed to work with the gang of racketeers headed by the late Dutch Schultz.

Visited by Schultz Gunmen.

One day Abe ["Misfit"] Landau and Louis ["Lulu"] Rosencrantz, two Schultz gunmen, came into her shop and told her she had to join the "combination," she testified.

"Lulu says to me, 'Lady, this is a racket and you can't be in it,'" testified Mrs. Silverman. "I told him we all had the same license. Then he said 'you'll find out!'"

The two Schultz gunmen called on her again, Mrs. Silverman testified, and "smacked my husband around."

Magical Change in Police.

Mrs. Silverman said that after passing under the domination of the racketeers there was a magical change in the attitude of the police. Now they only visited her once a month on an average and never searched her store.

Then in 1934 Mrs. Silverman got tired of working for the gang, which took the lion's share of her profits and said she would strike out on her own again. Almost immediately her place was raided and she was arrested on charges of violating the lottery laws and convicted.

Mrs. Silverman's story was in furtherance of Dewey's charges, as contained in the indictment, that the policy game operated under the protection of the Democratic boss who bribed, intimidated and otherwise influenced judges and other officials.

Involves Hines Associates.

Another witness linked associates of Hines with the policy racket. He is Leo Altman, a West Indies Negro. Altman was an arrest "fixer" for the Dutch Schultz syndicate. He said that members of Hines' Monongahela Democratic Political club visited Schultz's Harlem racket headquarters.

Altman also testified he had seen Julius "Red" Williams, a Hines election captain, around the Schultz mob hangout. It was Williams who last week repudiated his grand jury testimony. He denied on the stand that Hines had sent him to the Schultz headquarters for a job. Williams' bail was raised from $500 to $10,000 by Justice Pecora and he is being held in Tombs prison. At this juncture court was recessed until tomorrow.

Dewey and Pecora Clash.

Before this a sharp clash between Dewey and Justice Pecora took place at the bench. The prosecutor hinted that the jurist was leaning to the defense.

Justice Pecora, a Democrat, who in 1933 was a "recovery" candidate for district attorney with the backing of the Farley-Roosevelt forces, denied that he was showing anything but impartiality in his trial of the Tammany boss. Hines is patronage dispenser for the Roosevelt administration in Manhattan.

The dispute, out of ear shot of jury and spectators, grew out of a discussion between counsel for both sides on the admissibility of testimony regarding Dan Smith, a former policeman. Smith acted as bodyguard for Schultz and his gang lieutenants when they carried large sums of money. Alexander Pompez, a former big policy banker, was on the stand.

Dewey, who had been forced to upset his prepared case and put in

Human Moles Leave Graves Over a Girl

Oscar Atkins and Lester G. McIntyre, the human moles of Proviso township, came to the surface last night. They announced they were no longer buried alive. But this need not discourage peephole customers. They can look at another human mole. Her name is Marian.

Marian, said Atkins in some heat, was the reason he and McIntyre burrowed out of their holes. She was unfair competition.

Rest Easily for Many Days.

For seventeen days Atkins, who lives in West Melrose Park, had lain in a five foot grave off North avenue, near Mannheim road. McIntyre, whose home is in Zanesville, O., had been in his hole, Lake street and Wolf road, two miles away, for twenty-one days. A sign over each grave announced "Man Buried Alive." They attracted hundreds of customers at 10 cents a peep.

"Everything was going along fine and we were drawing 200 customers a day," said Atkins. "Then Sunday evening my own manager brought in Marian. He buried her only two blocks away from me—and McIntyre was competition enough already. I climbed out because any one would rather see a girl buried alive than a man, and that includes me."

Girl Isn't Grave About It.

Marian was resting last night in a five foot "grave" near Atkins' old burrow. Above floated a banner announcing "Girl Buried Alive." Marian is Mrs. Marian Weaver, 20 years old, and pretty. Her husband, Glenn, and little son, Ronald, are staying in a trailer near by. They are from Grand Rapids, Mich. Marian seemed comfortable on a sofa. A radio, electric fan, electric lights, and magazines make her feel at home.

Ernie Weldon, her manager, who was formerly Atkins' manager, said she was drawing many customers, mostly women. "She's a success already," he said. He challenged Atkins' story that Marian was unfair competition and drove Atkins away.

"The reason Atkins left his grave," said Weldon, "is that he wanted to play hooky one morning, and I wouldn't let him. He wanted me to substitute for him, but I didn't think that would be fair to the public. Besides, I have a mustache and he hasn't. They'd have seen the fake."

The other human mole, McIntyre, was on his way to Wauconda, Wis., last night, where he intends to dig a new grave. He wouldn't say exactly that Marian drove him away. His trouble was the Saturday rain.

"My grave leaked," he said.

YES, SIR! THE ORGAN SURE IS A BIG HELP DOWN ON THE FARM

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—When a middle west couple applied for social security, fund authorities observed that their ownership of an organ indicated some degree of wealth. Their reply: "I spose we cud sell the organ to git mony, but ever since we red about having a radio to help the cows give milk we moved the orgin into the shed and ma plays while I milk Daisy. It helps a lot."

BORN YEAR OF BIG SNOW, BUT FAILS IN PENSION PLEA

Denver, Colo., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Birthdays appeared today as the biggest stumbling block in an attempt of elderly Ute Indians to prove themselves eligible for old age pensions. "What can you do," asked Earl M. Kouns, state welfare director, "when an Indian says he was 'born during the year of the big snow'? Some of them first saw the light of day, they said, 'during the year of the big wind.' Some claim to have been scouts for Kit Carson." Kouns said the social security board would be asked for further instructions.

Whole Town Turns Out to Battle Swarm of Crickets

Noblesville, Ind., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—A cloud of crickets descended on Noblesville early today. Residents who were awakened found the sidewalks, lawns and other places covered with the insects. The population organized quickly and the battle was on. Men, women and children went to work with brooms, hot water, poisoned sprays and garden hose until they had the pests under control.

Profits and Ice Cream Melt in Taverns' Glow

With a merry ting-a-ling of his little bell, Kenneth Brown pedaled away from the loading station at 1415 Irving Park road late Saturday afternoon. His hopes were as cheery as the tinkle. Stacked up in his bicycle wagonette were $30 worth of assorted ice cream bars; when they were all sold Kenneth would have a neat profit.

Pretty soon Kenneth stopped at a tavern. He marched in. His physique was properly set off by his white coat and trousers and his peaked cap. His freshness and the wholesomeness of his wares contrasted with the odor of draught beer inside.

Time Goes—as It Will.

Time passed. It didn't dawdle and it didn't gallop. It simply went. Early last evening Kenneth came to himself. He was sitting on a curbstone at Chicago avenue and Clark street and he had a headache. In the bottom of the wagonette was an estimated $7 worth of a warm, sticky mixture that had once been ice cream bars.

He had never felt more tired in all his 28 years. [He said so himself.] A search disclosed that he had only a nickel in his pockets, and some mental arithmetic convinced him $23 worth of ice cream was missing.

Thoughtfully he pedaled around to the Chicago avenue police station and said he would like to surrender right there to the ice cream company.

"I am too tired to pedal any more," said Kenneth.

The desk sergeant said there was no charge against him. He firmly insisted that Kenneth had better push on to the Hudson avenue station. At Hudson avenue another sergeant directed Kenneth to the Sheffield station.

Finds Arresting Place.

There Kenneth found a haven. The company had asked police of the district to search for him. In a short time company officials arrived and examined the gooey remains of his sweet cargo. They also asked about the $30 he should have had. They agreed to let him go to his home, 722 Reba place, Evanston, and arrange to get the money. Kenneth could even ride the bicycle wagon home.

"Never," said Kenneth. "Give me carfare or I sleep right here."

Axmen Smash Big North Side Gambling Dive

Big syndicate gamblers, with their ornate gaming rooms, and the little independent bookies, felt the wrath of law enforcement agencies yesterday. There were three major developments:

1. State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders, continuing wrecking operations begun last week, destroyed a fifth gambling house at 4609 Clifton avenue. Their arrival precipitated a near riot among 400 customers, half of them women. The dive was said to be connected with the Capone syndicate.

City Police Raid Six Places.

2. Stirred to action by the state's attorney's ax men, city policemen made their most extensive gambling raids. They closed five small handbooks, four of them in the loop, and raided a colored policy wheel on the south side.

3. William R. [Bill] Johnson and four of his associates in the other big gambling syndicates were sued in the Circuit court for $45,000 by a mother-in-law. She charged that her son-in-law lost $15,000 in four of the Johnson gambling houses in a six months' period.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the state's attorney's police, sent Lieut. Thomas Kelly and seven other raiders into the 48th ward, stronghold of Democratic Ward Committeeman Frank Lyman.

The wrecked place was the Wilson-Clifton club. One entrance was at 4609 Clifton avenue; the other through a saloon at 1126 Wilson avenue. On May 19 the state's attorney's men had visited the joint and warned Jack Eisenberg, the manager. Mr. Courtney also sent a letter to Police Commissioner Allman advising him the gambling house was wide open.

Hack Their Way Through Door.

Yesterday the axmen went to work immediately. They hacked their way through the outside door at 4609. As they swung with vigor on an inner door, it was opened, Mr. Eisenberg summing up the situation with this remark:

"It looks like the boys are here."

Other "boys" meanwhile stormed in through the saloon entrance. Their arrival sent women betters into hysterics. Joined by male patrons, they stormed toward the exits until Lieut. Kelly made all leave in single file. Several women fainted upon reaching the saloon.

Lieut. Kelly sent Eisenberg and Leo Shaffer, said to be part owner and cashier, to the state's attorney's office for questioning. They were allowed to keep $1,200, but their financial records were seized.

Reduce Joint to Splinters.

And then, in the fashion now well known to the gamblers, Lieut. Kelly's raiders swung their axes. Within an hour the interior was wrecked.

A coroner's jury this morning will hear the story of Rudolph Sikora, his wife, Margaret, and Edward Solomon. Edward Solomon is dead. Sikora killed him early yesterday. He shot Solomon five times and then gave himself up to the police.

The shooting occurred at Clark street and Winnemac avenue across the street from Solomon's home at 1463 Winnemac avenue. Solomon was buying a newspaper. Sikora, who had been waiting in his automobile, stepped up with a target pistol and fired. Solomon died instantly. Sikora stood by calmly and awaited the arrival of police.

In the hours after the shooting police learned the tragedy of their tangled lives. They learned it from Sikora, who voiced no regret. And they learned it from his young wife, who tearfully told of the love she bore Solomon.

Only Love Is Lacking.

Sikora was a model husband. Mrs. Sikora said so. Her mother agreed, even more forcibly. Sikora was sober, industrious, and thoughtful. Everything pointed to a happy marriage.

Everything, save one. Mrs. Sikora did not love her husband. To the young brunette wife, love meant Edward Solomon, 35, a man thirteen years older than she. The young wife said Solomon, a graduate of Northwestern university, brought her poetry, romance, and love. Her husband only brought her his adoration.

Mrs. Sikora had tears only for the man who was slain—the man she had loved. To Acting Captain Michael J. Ahearn and Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis she talked.

Sobs Out Her Love.

"I loved Eddie more than anything in the world," she sobbed. "We were to be married. My husband promised me a divorce a month ago, but would not go through with it. I hope Eddie's mother doesn't hear of this. The shock might kill her."

There were no tears in the eyes of her husband. In his voice there was only relief. The last few weeks had been torture for him. "I've worried so that I lost fifteen pounds," he said.

"There was only one thing left to do. Today I did it."

In his statement he had the support of Mrs. Sikora's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme, 7809 Elm Grove avenue, Elmwood Park. Notified of the tragedy, she went to the station where her daughter and son-in-law were being questioned.

Praised by Mother-in-Law.

"Now you've done it!" Mrs. Boehme cried when she saw her daughter. "I warned you. And it's coming to you."

For Sikora the mother-in-law had nothing but praise.

"He was 100 per cent," she said. "He washed the windows and the dishes and scrubbed the floors. He dusted the furniture. Nothing was too good for Margaret. Just to be good to her he paid one-third of his salary for rent at their apartment, 3221 Cullom avenue."

It was these virtues in Sikora that three years ago attracted his bride-to-be. Mrs. Sikora says she married for companionship and security.

Slayer a Dispatcher's Clerk.

Sikora was a dispatcher's clerk for the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines. His wife formerly was employed as a private secretary for William M. Brantman & Co., public accountants, at 10 South La Salle street. He had never married and lived with his mother and sister.

Solomon also worked for Brantman as a certified public accountant.

The Sikoras met at a dance. He was a nice young man, she thought. So were many others. But on Aug. 7, 1935, six months after they met, they were married.

Every one approved. Every one told Mrs. Sikora how happy she would be, what a fine husband she had.

"Maybe I did think I loved him," she said. "I found out as soon as we were married that I did not."

"I guess it was a deception I maintained. I was living with a man I didn't love, dying for diversion he could not give me, and fearing that my family would be angry if we parted."

Then for the first time love came into her life. She and Solomon began going out to cocktail lounges. They went for long walks in the park. From the first, she said, it was love for both of them.

"Eddie had a beautiful mind," she continued. "We found we were perfectly attuned. Our tastes were exactly alike. We were going to be married."

Confides in Her Mother.

Mrs. Sikora said she eventually confided in her mother. Mrs. Boehme ordered her to break off the affair. Later her husband learned of it. Violent scenes followed, and Mrs. Sikora left home to live at 2241 Bissell street a month ago.

"I love my wife," said the killer. "She was perfect until she got into this. She's just a kid. She didn't know what this would lead to. I still want her to come back to me."

Sikora said he has become a nervous wreck. Sunday night he visited his mother-in-law to talk of his troubles. She made up a vacuum bottle of coffee for him to take home.

"But I couldn't sleep," he continued. "I had a headache. At 3 o'clock I got up, dressed, and went out for a drive. That's all I've been doing lately. I drove around hour after hour."

Takes Pistol Along.

Sikora had the target pistol he had purchased several years ago for a western trip. It was in the pocket of his car when he drove near Solomon's home.

When Solomon stepped out of the house on his way to work, Sikora said he suddenly seized his pistol and started after him. Solomon purchased a newspaper from Welden Graham, 16, of 4822 North Ashland avenue, the newspaper boy. The next instant Sikora began firing.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin, who was called into the investigation, recalled that Mrs. Boehme had appealed to him last Thursday to help Sikora break up his wife's affair. Austin said he told her nothing could be done.

Mrs. Sikora said that at one time her mother even accused her of using dope, believing that only narcotics could cause her to leave her husband. The young woman said that her mother caused a federal narcotics agent to follow her for some time until he realized the charge was unfounded.

BAKER OFFICIALS DEFEND PICKETS IN SHOP SCUFFLE

Pickets of the Associated Retail Bakers of Greater Chicago did not use violence Sunday at the Weber bakery, 4450 South Kedzie avenue, officials of the bakers' group said yesterday. Erich Weber, owner of the bakery and a director of the association, resigned yesterday.

The bakery had been picketed for the last three week-ends to enforce a Sunday closing rule voted recently by the association. Sunday the pickets entered the store. There was a scuffle involving them, Mrs. Weber, and two girl employés. Both sides accuse the other of having started the commotion.

Henry Topp and J. G. Jensen, officials of the association, said the pickets were master bakers, their wives and families. They said that if as many as five per cent of Chicago's 1,100 retail bakeries remained open on Sundays all would be forced to reopen. One reason for the merger a year ago of eight master baker associations, they said, was the hope of obtaining a Sunday closing agreement.

Mayor Kelly is at Eagle River, Wis., and Patrick A. Nash at Saratoga, N. Y.

Given Protection When She Joins Racket.

Pecora Cites Objections.

"Your honor has spoken to Mr. Stryker [Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel] concerning his duties as a lawyer, and your honor has also several times, what seemed to me, rebuked me for pressing my point on evidence; whereas, no such rebuke has ever been issued to counsel for the defense, although overruled."

Pecora remarked he had called the district attorney's attention at times "forcibly" to certain acts, "certain conduct that I thought improper" and should not have been indulged in before the jury. One of these episodes, he said, was last week when Dewey in the midst of the examination of Joseph [Big Joe] Ison, a policy banker, invited him to step off the stand and plead guilty.

Dewey said he accepted the judge's judgment on that and then added:

"I ask the court to indulge in the same assumption of good faith on behalf of a duly elected public officer that he does on behalf of counsel for the defense."

"I do," said Pecora. "I am not saying anything was done in bad faith, but where there is error—"

"But the rebuke of the district attorney, it seemed," retorted Dewey, "was in a manner as if he were an interloper in the court room—"

"You have absolutely no right to say that at all and I resent your saying it," shot back Pecora.

Denies Any Partiality.

Then the young prosecutor demanded to know whether the court held the same view of the "high duty of the district attorney that he does of the defense."

"The court holds that view of all counsel in the case, and never had any other notion," replied the judge. "This court is going to deal with this case in an even handed way, to the very utmost of its physical and intellectual and spiritual ability so to do."

Dewey said he just wanted to be informed because the court had spoken sharply to him. Pecora then declared that the district attorney held a quasi-judicial capacity and should bear it in mind.

Dewey remarked that this indicated that he had assumed a "superior" status in the court room, which he had not, and that he hoped he would enjoy "the same respect from the court as defense counsel."

Pompez Resumes Stand.

This ended the sparring and Pompez resumed the stand.

The former policy banker related in calm matter of fact tones that Abe [Misfit] Landau, a Schultz gangster, had threatened to "bump me off" in 1933 when Landau thought Pompez was double crossing the gang.

This was at a time that the greedy racketeers cut the policy runners' pay and business dropped. Later on, Pompez said, the pay cut was restored and receipts shot upward again.

Pompez testified that he operated for the Schultz gang from March of 1932 until March of 1934, that although he was to have received $250 a week salary he never was given more than $75 and that when he wound up the "combination" owed him $36,000 in profits promised him.

The break came when the gang refused to pay off losses Pompez suffered when his players "hit" winning numbers, saying all available cash was being used in fighting the income tax evasion case against Schultz.

Bodyguard at Hearing

Steals Ride Home Before Enlisting; Train Severs Foot

John Dlubac, 21 years old, had decided to enlist in the army. But first he wished to go home and say good-bye to his parents in Unionville, Conn. He tried to jump aboard the fast Detroit Arrow of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday at 64th and State streets. When he missed the wheels severed his right foot. He was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. "Now I can never be a soldier," he told nurses there.

WANT LEHMAN TO RUN, IF G. O. P. SELECTS DEWEY

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Strong sentiment favoring the drafting of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman to run for governor again this fall, if the Republican party nominates District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, developed today at a meeting of the Democratic state committee. Gov. Lehman at present plans to seek the United States senate seat vacated by the death of Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Proceeding on the theory that Dewey is the Republican man of the hour, the committee left its campaign plans in abeyance until the completion of the trial of James J. Hines.

If Hines is convicted Dewey will be the Republican nominee. If the Democrats don't run Lehman they may run Senator Robert F. Wagner for governor.

Party's Destruction Goal, Says Quiz Witness.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Certain policies of the Roosevelt administration coincide with aims of the communist party for an American revolution, a house committee was told today.

Dr. James B. Matthews, writer and professor, also told the committee investigating un-American activities that the communists call for destruction of the Democratic party.

This would be done, he said, by driving a wedge between liberal and conservative elements of the party—such as the current purge campaign is doing. From this, he asserted, a Farmer-Labor party would emerge strong enough to accomplish the revolution.

Once Red Organizer.

Matthews spoke from experience, he said, as an organizer for various "united front" organizations of the communist party. He quit this activity, he said, because of his objections to its aims. He was the first president of the American League Against War and Fascism, which later became the League for Peace and Democracy. Other witnesses have testified that organization is dominated by communists.

Reference to the Roosevelt administration was made by Representative J. P. Thomas [R., N. J.], who asked Matthews whether he thought the communist party wrote any of the administration's program.

"I wouldn't say that," Matthews replied, "but I think that from reading communist literature it is clear that certain immediate objectives of the administration coincide with those of the communist party."

Purge Support Indicated.

Matthews indicated that communists are offering enthusiastic support to President Roosevelt's attack on certain conservative Democrats.

Representative Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.] asked Matthews whether the $50,000 campaign fund to be raised by the Workers' Alliance, avowed communist organization, to defeat Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], on the purge list, is a definite indication of a wedge being driven into the Democratic party.

"It appears to me to be so," the witness replied.

The deliberate aim of the communists, Dr. Matthews testified, is the disintegration of the Democratic party.

"Out of the chaos of the Democratic party's destruction," he said, "it is hoped a national Farmer-Labor party would emerge. The backbone of this new grouping would be the industrial unions, a single political bloc numbering millions and susceptible of being moved as chess pieces upon the political board."

Once the Farmer-Labor party came into power, Matthews said, the communist party would exert every ounce of its influence to cause sabotage of the capitalistic system through burdens of restrictive legislation and taxation.

Matthews was accompanied to the hearing today by a bodyguard, appointed by the committee after the witness had reported threats.

Chairman Martin Dies announced after today's hearing that a subcommittee, headed by Representative John L. Dempsey [D., N. M.], will go to the west coast to investigate the charges against Harry Bridges, west coast leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Matthews had charged in his testimony that the communist party controls Bridges.

529 CHILD BRIDES ARE FOUND IN RANKS OF N. Y. SCHOOL SYSTEM

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.]—The New York City school system during the last school year dismissed a number of girls in their early teens for getting married.

A report of Superintendent of Schools Harold G. Campbell disclosed today that 531 children ranging from elementary to senior high school were married last year. Only two of the number were boys, each 16. One was an elementary, the other an extension school student.

Among the girl brides, one was 12, four were 13, and twenty-seven had reached the age of 14. Eighty of the brides were 15 years old. The 16 year marriages, most numerous of all, totaled 334—ten below the 1931 figure.

4 FELONS SLAIN IN JAIL STRIKE; BLAME SCALDS

Warden Denies Use of Steam Hose.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Four convicts were found dead today in solitary confinement cells in the Philadelphia county prison. Their mysterious deaths climaxed a five day hunger strike in which they were the leaders.

Warden W. B. Mills.

Contradictory causes of their deaths were given. Dr. Morton Crane, coroner's physician, asserted the men probably were scalded by hot water or live steam. It also was reported the men were clubbed to death or were killed by cold water from a high pressure hose. Their prison clothes had been taken from them.

A legislative committee last April condemned the prison and said it was under the rule of a group of convicts who had political connections. Six times since 1929 there have been riots or hunger strikes at the institution, and each time the prisoners' chief complaint was against food.

Calls Deaths Suspicious.

Following a censorship of news at the prison for several hours, Warden William B. Mills denied that the men had been clubbed to death or were scalded to death or killed by cold water. He suggested they had killed one another fighting among themselves.

However, Coroner Charles H. Hersch described the circumstances surrounding the deaths as very suspicious. He ordered an autopsy.

"I am of the opinion that scalding water somehow got into their cells," said Coroner's Physician Crane. "All four men exhibited the symptoms typical of death by gas, steam, or hot water.

"There also were bruises and abrasions which indicate they were beaten before being scalded to death."

The victims were James McQuade, 26 years old, serving eighteen months to three years for an assault on a policeman; Edward Hayes, alias Frank Comodeca, 46, serving ten to twenty years for robbery; Joseph Walters, a long termer described as an incorrigible, and Henry Osborne, 22, serving three to ten years for burglary.

Victims in Adjoining Cells.

The prisoners were in adjoining punishment cells in a building set apart from the other prison structures. The warden said the building originally was constructed to house noisy prisoners so they could not disturb other inmates and that it would be impossible for others to hear their screams or yells. There is no guard in the building.

"The isolation cells are completely unfurnished," the warden said. "There are no beds, no chairs, no anything. Therefore, if the men fought it was with bare hands."

In each of the death cells was one living convict squatting by the bodies of his dead companions. The surviving convicts told the same story—that their companions butted their heads against the walls until they dropped unconscious.

EX-GENERAL, NOW A COBBLER, TO BE DEPORTED BY U. S.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Federal immigration officers today recommended the deportation of Nicholas Bogomoletz, former general in the White Russian army, to Latvia, his birthplace.

The former general, now a cobbler in Hollywood, is adjudged an undesirable alien because he brought a former Russian nurse, Anna Zaporojachuk, to America with him in 1922, representing her as his wife. They were married several weeks ago.

American army officers testified at the deportation hearing that Bogomoletz was in charge of a terrorist train in Siberia and he wantonly fired on an American troop train in 1920, killing two soldiers. This the former general denied.

Sues Second Husband

MRS. FLORENCE MABEE.

Mrs. Florence Thompson Thomas Mabee, daughter of the late John R. Thompson, restaurant owner, filed suit for divorce yesterday from Carl F. Mabee. The bill, which charges desertion, was filed in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan by Attorney Wilbur B. Brazell of the firm of Decker, Brazell & Decker.

Mrs. Mabee lives with her mother at "The Highlands," 1485 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest. It was there on Nov. 2, 1935, that she married Mr. Mabee in a quiet family wedding. They have no children.

In her bill Mrs. Mabee asks permission to resume her former married name of Thomas. In November of 1933 she divorced Harry Thomas, Chicago broker and former football star at the University of Chicago. She obtained custody of their children, Cynthia Rose and John R. Thomas.

3 FISHERMEN TRY THEIR HANDS AT BASS; FINED $240

Along the Fox river folks like to believe that everyone who goes after fish is a sportsman. That's why Justice of the Peace B. M. Brown was unusually severe Saturday with three Chicagoans.

They are George and Earl McClure, 2329 South St. Louis avenue, and Emil Klauber, 2413 South Trumbull avenue. They were fined a total of $200 and $40 costs for violating the state game laws and jailed until the fine was paid yesterday.

Policemen testified that the three rented a boat and rowed to a quiet cove, well stocked with bass. In shallow water, they tipped the boat on one side. Then they splashed the water, causing the bass to leap into the boat. In this way they caught 34 bass, 23 of them under sized.

RELIEF CHEATERS ON FEDERAL ROLL NOT PROSECUTED

It's Easier to Get WPA Job than State Aid.

The state of Illinois has a law against relief cheating and the state and city relief administrations attempt to enforce it. The United States has a law against WPA cheating, but the state and city Works Progress administrations make no attempt to enforce it, it was revealed yesterday.

Comparison of federal and city standards for determining eligibility showed it is easier to get a WPA job than home relief.

Resume Application Taking.

For the last week the Chicago relief administration [CRA] and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission [IERC] have been taking applications for WPA jobs from persons not on CRA relief. The practice was resumed at the request of the WPA after a three weeks' suspension.

Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons has halted it because a waiting list of 24,000 [now 30,000] had accumulated. Charles E. Miner, state WPA director, said it was necessary to know the size of the unemployment problem in order to meet it.

Miner added that 13,000 jobless are now being absorbed from this reservoir by assignment to WPA jobs.

Recalls No U. S. Prosecutions.

Miner said he knew of no violations or prosecutions in Chicago under the law first enacted in 1936 providing a $2,000 fine or a year in prison for any persons intentionally making a false statement in applying for federal assistance. This law is noted at the top of WPA application blanks.

He said that his office has a division of investigation, but that its main concern is with criminal offenses by supervisory employés.

CRA records, on the other hand, show evidence of cheating by approximately 1,500 relief clients since March, 15, 1937. The CRA did not prosecute 1,200 because actual misrepresentation was hard to prove.

130 Cheaters Found Guilty.

Criminal action was brought against 248 and in 70 cases now closed, 130 were found guilty. Many of these and others agreed to make restitution.

A CRA fraud investigator said he knew of a few cases in which relief cheaters were also on the WPA pay roll.

Lyons, who is also secretary of the IERC, said that under the present system of certifying non-reliefers for WPA no home investigation is required. Nor is a sworn statement of fact demanded. Both are necessary for direct relief certification.

Miner doubted that any person would find the WPA's $55 a month for 110 hours of work attractive enough to commit fraud to obtain it.

"We have found," he added, "that relief regulations and discrimination in some parts of the state prevented needy people from obtaining WPA jobs. We have asked the state relief commission to remove these obstacles."

FACTOR SETTLES $528,423 U.S. TAX ROW FOR $120,027

Jake the Barber Pays Off Four Year Claims.

John [Jake the Barber] Factor, former Chicago speculator, has settled a $528,423 income tax claim for $120,029, it was announced yesterday by the bureau of internal revenue at Washington. The government had sought the larger sum from Factor and his wife, Rella, for taxes on their income for the years 1923, 1924, 1925, and 1932.

In a stipulation filed with the federal board of tax appeals the internal revenue bureau agreed that the couple had overpaid $1,406 in 1923 and $27,958 in 1924. The Factors conceded a deficiency of $34,396 in their 1932 payment. The difference between the latter figure and the previous overpayments, totaling $29,364, is $5,032, the amount the couple will pay. They had previously paid $114,997.

The bureau agreed that the Factors had no taxable income for 1925. Factor asserted he suffered a loss of $300,000 in the collapse of a Florida land company that year.

The issue in the 1923 and 1924 returns concerned bank deposits of $398,000 by Factor. The revenue bureau said this money represented dividends from British corporations. Factor contended, however, that the funds were return of capital or compensation for personal services outside the United States. Factor also claimed a loss of $265,434 in his income tax return for 1932 from the forced sale of assets of two $1,000,000 trust funds to raise cash to satisfy British creditors.

Once a West Side Barber.

Factor, once a barber on the west side, made a fortune in financial markets here and in London. In 1932 the British government sought his extradition from this country on charges of defrauding investors in England of $7,000,000.

While this action was pending Factor was kidnaped. He was reported to have paid $50,000 ransom for his release. Three members of the Touhy gang—Roger Touhy, Gus Schaefer, and Albert Kator—were sentenced to 99 years each in Joliet prison for the kidnaping.

The United States refused to extradite Factor to England. Later he paid off part of the British claims.

HITLER PARADES HIS NAVY TO AWE HUNGARIAN CHIEF

117 Warships Reviewed by Admiral Horthy.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KIEL, Germany, Aug. 22.—One hundred and seventeen units of Germany's new navy paraded off Kiel bay today before Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary.

It was the second time since the world war that the Hungarian admiral had seen the sea. The previous occasion was a few years ago when he paid a state visit to Italy.

Adolf Hitler directed the greatest parade of the German navy since the wartime fleet surrendered to the allies. He and Horthy watched the naval display from the Grille, the Fuehrer's luxurious dispatch boat. The crews of the German warships lined the rails as the vessels steamed past.

Entire Fleet Present.

Foreign observers who had witnesed more imposing displays of American and British navies were not particularly awed by the exhibition of German sea might. The Nazis proclaimed that practically the entire fleet took part in the procession.

Among the ships in the parade were 37 U-boats, one 26,000 ton battleship, three 10,000 ton vestpocket cruisers, four 6,000 ton light cruisers, two artillery practice ships, twelve destroyers, twelve torpedo boats, twelve torpedo carrying speedboats, thirty-six mine sweepers, and other craft. Naval maneuvers followed the exhibition.

Before the review, the Hungarian regent and his entourage attended the launching of a new 10,000 ton cruiser. Mme. Horthy, whom Hungarian Nazis say has Jewish blood, broke a bottle of German champagne on the bow of the cruiser and named it Prince Eugene. This was indirectly a tribute to Horthy. He commanded the Austrian battleship Prince Eugene in the world war.

Bids for Hungarian Coöperation.

Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria, made a clear bid for Hungarian coöperation at the launching ceremonies.

"It is well intended that the states of middle Europe which, correctly realizing how indissolubly they are bound up with the German reich, make common cause with her for their own good and for the liberation of the Danubian people," he said.

"We all desire that the nations within this middle European space shall determine their own fate and in common endeavor to be architects of their own future, at the same time respecting their own nationalisms."

WHEATON JURORS HEAR BUILDER'S BOYCOTT CHARGE

William Wallace, Lombard building contractor, and six representatives of material supply companies in Du Page county testified yesterday before the grand jury in Wheaton. Wallace complained last week that the companies refused to sell him supplies for fear of a boycott against them by the Du Page County Building Trades council.

According to State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney, the company representatives denied before the grand jury that they had been threatened with union reprisals. The witnesses are reported to have stated that they would sell supplies to Wallace whenever he wanted them.

Wallace is a member of the Landis Award association, which employs nonunion labor. Early this month he resumed construction of a house at Ash and Martha streets in Lombard after labor violence had tied up the project for seven weeks.

BEER TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED.

Dominick Marrello, a truck driver for the American Beer Distributing company, 1614 South Kedzie avenue, was robbed of $150 in collections yesterday. Two gunmen drove an automobile in the truck's path in the rear of 5627 Belmont avenue, and forced Marrello to give up the money. Marrello is 35 years old and lives at 1717 Cullerton street.

Named with Johnson in the Circuit court suit were Jack Sommers, Peter Reilly, James Hartigan, and William Kelly. It was filed by Mrs. Libby Maxwell, in behalf of Herman Van Spankaren Jr., 6422 North Leavitt street, her son-in-law.

Names Four Gambling Clubs.

The bill, drawn by Attorney Sam C. Morris, named the following Johnson gambling establishments: The D-D club, 1205 North Dearborn street; the Horseshoe club, 4721 North Kedzie avenue; the Harlem Stables, Harlem and Montrose avenues, and the Devlin, at Lincoln and Devon avenues in Lincolnwood.

The bill alleged that Van Spankaren, a salesman, lost $15,000 at these establishments from Dec. 30, 1936 to June 21, 1937.

Police Breathing Easier; Lost Case of Gas Found

A missing case of poisonous cyanogen gas, about which every one but the shippers had been worried, was delivered yesterday to a Chicago fumigating firm. The thirty tins apparently had been missent from the railroad yard. Despite the fact that police had been searching for the deadly package, the New York manufacturers remained calm. It was hermetically sealed, they said, and if any one wanted to look inside he first had to have a special opener. The gas left New York Aug. 12.

FRENCH CABINET IS SHAKEN UP IN ROW OVER LABOR

Radicals Fight Proposal to End 40 Hour Week.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The French cabinet crisis caused by the resignation of two ministers in protest against Premier Edouard Daladier's proposal to drop the fourty hour week was quickly patched up today. However, the nation is suffering from another bad attack of political fever.

The two ministers who resigned were Ludavic Frossard and Paul Ramadier. Both are members of former Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour's Socialist and Republican union—a group of dissenting Socialists. Daladier replaced them with two other members of the same party—Anatole de Monzie as minister of public works, and Charles Pomaret as minister of labor.

Political Truce Broken.

The political truce which has been observed by all parties since Daladier took power on April 10 has been broken. Socialists and communists have risen with shouts of indignation to defend the forty hour week, which Daladier last night said must be "modified" — that is, stretched into a forty-eight hour week.

The premier in his radio address to the nation said the forty hour week must be sacrificed to strengthen France's war machine and spur French business.

The communists demanded an early meeting of all deputies of the Popular front which holds a majority in the chamber. The forty hour week was put into effect two years ago by the first Popular front government of Leon Blum, Socialist leader.

Trade unionists summoned an emergency meeting of their executive council. A statement issued by the union headquarters showed that the labor leaders have not made up their minds on any course of action. Nevertheless they condemned the premier's declaration. The statement urged workers to be vigilant and warned them to be ready to resist any concrete step to wipe out the forty hour week.

New Split Among Parties.

The press disclosed a new split and a new lineup among political parties. The anti-Fascist camp, on which Daladier is relying for support, is split in two. Purely nationalist elements in it, including most of Daladier's Radical Socialist party, enthusiastically support the premier's stand. So do the conservative elements.

The radical proletarian elements, who united with the conservative anti-Fascists to support Daladier, now are against him.

Political observers believe that Daladier, who up to now has proved an efficient but perfectly orthodox premier, has decided to live up to his own legend as a strong man. The right wing parties are chortling with glee at the idea that Daladier now will have to reorganize his government, along conservative lines to have a parliamentary majority.

Some experts believe it more likely that he will try to take advantage of the dangerous international situation to rule the country without a majority.

This situation probably will arise if Daladier decides to reopen the Spanish frontier. The frontier has been closed to stop shipments of war supplies to loyalist Spain. If the frontier is reopened the radical, or leftist, parties will be afraid either to support him or overthrow him.

INCREASE BONDS OF 2 HELD FOR MUTILATION OF WASHINGTON MAN

Olympia, Wash., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The bonds of two men, one a prominent physician, arrested in the torture of Irving Baker, 37 years old, former coast guard lieutenant, were increased today from $10,000 to $25,000 each.

One of the two men held on charges of kidnaping and assault is Dr. K. W. Berry, 54 years old, a physician with a wide practice. Prosecutor Smith Troy said the attack grew out of an affair between Baker and Mrs. Berry, 27 years old, the physician's third wife. The other man held is James Reddick, 27 years old, a taxi driver. Three more suspects are sought.

The prosecutor said Baker, recovering in a hospital from a beating with knotted belts and multilation with pliers, identified Berry and Reddick as two of four men who took him from home last Friday and tortured him. Baker denied intimacy with Mrs. Berry.

BUS STATION TO REPLACE HOME OF WORDSWORTH

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

COCKERMOUTH, England, Aug. 22.—The Georgian house here where William Wordsworth was born is threatened with destruction, it was learned tonight. The poet's birthplace has been acquired by a bus company which has petitioned the Cumberland county council and the Cockermouth urban council for permission to demolish it and erect a new bus station. Efforts to induce the bus company to select another site are being made by the Wordsworth national memorial committee, which recently raised $5,000 in Great Britain and the United States to purchase the house.

DICTATORS BREW NEW TROUBLE FOR BRITAIN, FRANCE

Franco's Answer Dashes Hopes of Peace.

LONDON, Aug. 22. — (AP) — Great Britain and France tonight were fearful that Europe's dictators were starting "a concerted diplomatic" harassment of the democracies.

Observers put this interpretation, which promises new trouble from the Rome-Berlin axis, on two developments:

1. Rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco's virtual scrapping of the nonintervention committee plan for getting foreign soldiers out of Spain.

2. Italy's diplomatic refusal either to affirm or deny charges that further supplies have gone to the Spanish rebels.

Cools Hopes of Agreements.

Considered along with Anglo-French worries over Germany's "mobilization" maneuvers, the deadlocked Sudeten [Nazi] German issue in Czechoslovakia, and Italy's violent anti-British and anti-French press campaigns, the developments seemed to squelch hopes of any early friendship agreement with Italy and Germany.

They made prospects of eventual operation of the English-Italian friendship pact even more remote, and brought Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain face to face with these gloomy alternatives:

To seek a further nonintervention compromise to satisfy Gen. Franco, with little hope of getting France or Russia to agree;

Or to knock the bottom out of his foreign policy by abandoning the long cherished Anglo-Italian pact, which is not to become operative until "settlement" of the Spanish war has been reached.

Another Echo of Eden.

In either case Chamberlain seems bound to hear from supporters of former Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, whose resignation resulted from a disagreement on the policy regarding the dictator states. Also there is the question of Conservative party sentiments throughout the country within a few weeks of the party's annual conference.

Some quarters suggested that Chamberlain, faced with a nonintervention deadlock, might attempt new talks designed to end the Spanish war by an agreement between the two combatants independently of their foreign backers. He could thus claim a "settlement in Spain" and perhaps satisfy Mussolini by putting the Anglo-Italian pact into operation.

Others, however, recalled that mediation often had been mentioned in times of crisis, but never had led to anything. It was pointed out that Franco on Nov. 18, 1937, accepted in principle the plan he now rejects. Observers suggested that the need for foreign aid or promptings from Rome and Berlin might have inspired his rejection.

5 DIE AS GERMAN PLANE RIPS INTO GROCERY STORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—A pursuit plane which was taking part in a sham air battle above central Berlin today crashed into a grocery in the Weberstrasse near the police headquarters. The whirring propeller killed the proprietor and two men and two women customers. The two flyers escaped with their lives.

Engine trouble forced the flyers to try to land in a street that seemed empty. A wing crashed into the shop window. The plane then swung around and roared into the grocery. Police guarded the street to keep out the curious.

Earthquake Rattles Doors in N. J. and Pennsylvania

New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A slight earthquake rattled doors and dishes in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania at 10:45 o'clock tonight. No serious damage was reported. In Philadelphia the quake was described as "like a heavy truck passing in the street." The shocks were felt in Trenton, N. J., and in Morrisville and Bristol, Pa.

Smash Rebel Thrusts

JAPANESE STRIVE TO END DEADLOCK OF HANKOW DRIVE

Attack on Shores of Central Lake.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23. [Tuesday.]—Japanese struck on the central Yangtze river front today in an effort to break the deadlock which for weeks has held up their drive toward Hankow, temporary Chinese capital.

Bombing planes and river gunboats bombarded Chinese on both banks of the Yangtze at points about twenty miles west of Kiukiang. Kiukiang is the Japanese advance base and is about 135 miles downstream from Hankow. In the sector west of Kiukiang there was severe fighting around Juichang and Red Lake.

Attempt Drive Around Lake.

South of Kiukiang the Japanese were attempting to advance along both sides of Lake Poyang toward Nanchang. Nanchang once was the chief Chinese air base. It is at the southwest corner of Lake Poyang and is about 100 miles south of Kiukiang.

The Japanese landed forces at Matsun on the east bank of the lake and threatened the town of Tuchang, which is about fifty miles southeast of Kiukiang. The Chinese lines were forced back toward Tuchang. Yesterday the Japanese captured the town of Singtze which is on the west shore of the lake.

In South China the Japanese have landed troops on the mainland near Amoy and are attempting to advance on Chuanchow. Three other troop transports waiting at Amoy.

Send Two Protests to Soviet.

TOKIO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two Japanese protests to Moscow indicated today that there had been only slight improvement in Russo-Japanese relations since Aug. 11 when a truce ended nostilities on the Siberian-Manchukuan frontier.

The foreign office said the protests were made against soviet plane flights over the disputed border and against Russia's "unreasonable attitude" in "forcing" the withdrawal of Japanese consulate officials from Khabarovsk and Blagoveschensk.

Reports to Tokio newspapers that Russia has increased military aid to Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and was actively assisting and directing the Chinese defense against the Japanese drive on Hankow likewise contributed to continuing tension between the two governments.

Three Flights Across Border.

The foreign office statement referred to three flights in which Russian planes were alleged to have flown over Manchukuan territory last Saturday.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, in a dispatch from Soeul, Corea, said authorities there believed the planes were en route from a base on the southern tip of Siberia to drop supplies to soviet troops at Changlingtze when they flew over Corean as well as Manchukuan territory. The troops lacked food because of heavy floods in the region.

In the protest against closing the two consulates Japan asked the soviet government to reconsider the situation. The soviet union earlier had closed its consulates at Kobe and Otaru on the principle of equal numbers of consulates between the two countries.

Assassins Wound 2 Chinese Officials of Jap Tax Agency

SHANGHAI, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two Chinese office holders in the Japanese-dominated salt tax collection agency were shot and seriously wounded in a crowded street in the international settlement today by three assassins who escaped. The victims were in an automobile passing the American Women's club in Bubbling Well road. The gunmen discarded their clothes and pistols in a small shop nearby.

Six Killed as Two French Bombers Collide and Burn

LYONS, France, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Two French bombing planes on a training flight collided in midair here tonight. They fell 3,000 feet in flames, carrying six occupants to their death. A seventh man was reported to have taken to his parachute, but no trace of him was found.

LOYALISTS CRUSH REBEL ATTACKS ON THREE FRONTS

Hold Town Against Tanks and Bombing Planes.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 22.—(AP)—Smashing rebel offensives on three fronts were beaten back today in bitter fighting by entrenched Spanish government troops.

Rebel forces loosed their attacks at Villalba de los Arcos, seven miles north of Gandesa in southern Catalonia; on the Balaguer front between Balaguer and Tremp, about 55 miles north of Gandesa, and on the Estremadura front in southwest Spain at a point south of Puebla de Larzobispo on the border between Toledo and Caceres provinces. Rebel attacks wilted under fire of government machine guns.

Attempt to Circle Town.

At Villalba de los Arcos the rebels attempted to encircle the government held village. Rebels who dominate two sides of Lascomas mountain northeast of the village attacked with thirty tanks and nearly 100 planes, but the defenders held their ground under a rain of aerial bombs and artillery shells.

On the Balaguer front several rebel columns, preceded by tanks and fifteen war planes, tried to cross the Segre river near the Camarasa dam, north of Balaguer.

Government troops, advised by scouts that rebels were massing troops in the vicinity, greeted the advancing columns with a heavy fire from machine guns and trench mortars.

Two Tanks Disabled.

As the rebels arrived at the bridgehead preceded by tanks, government fighters opened fire with anti-tank guns, crippling two of the rebel machines and forcing the others to retreat.

Government dispatches said their anti-aircraft batteries had shot down a German made pursuit plane on the Ebro front, leading to capture of a German pilot after he landed by parachute.

On the Estremadura front the rebels attacked government positions south of Puebla de Larzobispo with an offensive which started from Valdelacasa, Villar del Pedroso, and Carrascalejo.

The offensive was designed to carry the rebels over the Huso river, a tributary of the Tagus. Government troops entrenched in the Sierra Ancha and the Sierra Estrella, mountains which dominate the Huso valley, drove the attackers back with heavy loss of life.

JEWISH GIRL AND BOY ACCUSED OF BOMBING ARABS

JERUSALEM, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A Jewish girl, 13 years old, was accused before a military court today of carrying a a bomb which killed four Arabs and wounded thirty-six in a bus explosion here Aug. 7. Three Arab witnesses testified they saw the defendant, Rachel Koka, take the bomb from a bag and give it to Israel Mishali, a Jewish boy. The witnesses said the boy, who is 17 years old, hurled the bomb at the bus.

Both the boy and girl pleaded innocent. The death penalty is not applicable to them in case of conviction because they are under 18 years of age. A British police sergeant testified he believed the bomb was planted beneath the seats of the bus.

A Jewish girl was killed and another passenger injured when a bus was ambushed tonight south of Tel Aviv. The attack occurred near where one Jew was fatally wounded and four others were injured this morning. Four Arabs were killed in a clash with British police near Beisan, and three Arabs from Nazareth were found slain on the Acre Safed road.

ITALY COUNTS HER JEWS IN ORDER TO LIMIT THEIR JOBS

Special Census Starts Today.

ROME, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Italy will start counting her Jews tomorrow in a special census ordered under the new Fascist race program.

All Italian Jews, regardless of religion, will be compelled to answer a questionnaire concerning their origin, economic status, past military service and other matters.

The census of Jews who volunteer the information is expected to be completed quickly. The tracking down of dodgers, on whom heavy penalties are to be imposed, may continue for some time.

Plans Limit on Jobs.

Non-Jewish families having one or more Jewish members by marriage will be included in the census.

The Fascist government, aided by Nazi Germany's tried methods, intends to find out how many Jews there are in Italy in order to limit their participation in the armed forces, civil service and professions by the ratio of one Jew to every 1,000 non-Jewish Italians.

Jewish figures estimate Italy's Jewish population at 44,000. There are many Jews in the Fascist party and in high positions. There are several Jewish generals and admirals and about 400 officers and subofficers in the air corps. Fascists say foreign Jews will be forced to give up their work and, perhaps, be expelled.

Three Reasons Cited.

Italian espousal of anti-Semitism, disavowed until recently by Fascism, is attributed to several causes. Official spokesmen name three:

1. A desire to defend the newly acquired empire through prohibition of intermarriage of Italians to prevent creating a mixed race.

2. A wish to strike a blow at "international Hebrewism," which Fascists accuse of leading attacks on Fascism.

3. The Fascist belief that Jews have attained a position in Europe out of proportion to their numbers.

'KING' MIHAILOFF, BULGARIAN REBEL, FLEES TO POLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 22.—Ivan Mihailoff, "king" of the Macedonian revolutionists and under a death sentence as a terrorist in Bulgaria, was en route to a new haven in Poland today.

Ivan Mihailoff.

Ordered out of Turkey on short notice, Mihailoff and his wife, Mencia Carniciu, fled on a Polish tramp steamer for Gydnia after England and the United States had refused him visas. They escaped from Bulgaria to Turkey in August, 1934, and had been living in the interior under police surveillance until four months ago, when they were sent to Prince's Island.

Ordered Shot on Sight.

Mihailoff was found guilty of murder by a Bulgarian military tribunal shortly after his escape. The tribunal declared him an outlaw and gave every Bulgarian the right to shoot him on sight.

His extradition has since been sought, but Turkey refused to give him up. Jugo-Slavia, which charges Mihailoff with a part in the assassination of King Alexander at Marseille, France, in October, 1934, also has endeavored to bring him to court. His enemies accused him of 3,500 assassinations in twelve years.

Mihailoff and his Macedonian revolutionists have sought to free by force of arms about 2,500,000 countrymen living in about 50,000 square miles of territory now controled by Greece, Jugo-Slavia, and Bulgaria.

Headed "Invisible Empire."

He was head of the dreaded "invisible empire" which operated in those nations. The international revolutionary society, known as the "Imro," goes back to the time when Turkey exercised sovereignty from the Bosporus to the Adriatic and has worried the Balkan states for years.

Now in his early 40s, "King" Mihailoff has carried on romantic reprisals and plots. At one time he moved from camp to camp in the Balkan mountains in his efforts to harass the governments.

Many of his followers have been assassinated. The Imro once controled the Petrich district of Bulgaria, but lost power there when a military dictatorship took over the country.

PORTO RICO SEEKS ANOTHER ARTIST TO PAINT MURAL

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 22.—Gov. Blanton Winship tonight recommended the commissioning of another artist to do the Porto Rican mural in the postoffice building at Washington, D. C., to displace the one painted by Rockwell Kent. He asked for an appropriation of $3,000.

"I am not questioning Mr. Kent's recognized ability as an artist," his message said, "but I am in entire accord with the sentiment of the people of Porto Rico that the mural is in bad taste and conveys a false impression of conditions in this beautiful island."

Kent's mural pictures Porto Ricans as Negroes. One of the group is shown receiving an air mail letter from Alaska with strange lettering, which Kent said was an Eskimo dialect. Translated, it was a plea for Porto Rican independence. After many objections this mural was ordered painted over by another artist.

GOING OUT TO SWIM

By CALEB

A CHARMING lady, who is not so very old, remembers quite vividly how as a girl she used to steal away at five o'clock in the morning to go into the water by herself and practice swimming. The desire to swim was frowned upon by the parents of that day, for the sport was regarded as much too dangerous for young ladies.

There may have been some sense in their contention, the lady admits, in view of the costume she wore into the water. Voluminous bloomers reached well below the knees, and a knee-length coat buttoned high about her neck, flaring back into a sailor collar decorated appropriately with anchors. She invariably wore long stockings and heavy slippers and an impressive piece of headgear, half hat, half cap.

Young ladies in those days were expected to cling timidly to an escort's arm, jump up and down in the water, screaming pretitly the while. But this one wanted to swim—and so she, flouting convention, secretly tried it.

"Well," she says, with a reminiscent sigh, "it didn't take me long to discover that I wasn't going to do much swimming so long as I wore that get-up. I think when it got wet it must have weighed at least fifty pounds. It's not much wonder swimming was regarded as far too dangerous for ladies in those days. In the water we weren't clinging vines — we were plummets!

"I made up my mind then and there that my children wouldn't have that kind of a handicap when they struck out for themselves—either in the water or in the world itself. Sooner or later, of course, they have to strike out — to sink or swim alone. I've tried not to load them up with a lot of excess weight to hold them back while they're learning. I wanted them to be free mentally from a lot of extra and unessential items."

Pressed for her recipe of streamlined thinking for her children, this wise mother replied tersely, "Stick to fundamentals. Teach them to be honest, fearless, reverent and always good sports. From that point on don't bother them too much—you'll drag them back the way those old bathing costumes used to do to us."

COUNCIL ASKS 80 MILES OF STREET CAR EXTENSIONS

Planned in New Ordinance; Buses Likely to Be Used.

Extensions to the Chicago Surface Lines system, totaling eighty miles of new routes, will be required under the new unification ordinance which city and company officials are drafting. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of a council committee working on the new ordinance, made the announcement yesterday.

Quinn said the committee presented to the company officials a plan for extending the present service. The management is to give an answer tomorrow. Street railway engineers already have tentatively approved the proposals, he said.

Expected to Use Buses.

All extensions probably would be made with either gasoline or trolley buses. The additional lines proposed by the committee call for 167 single way miles of route. As most of the lines would operate in both directions on the same streets, the actual miles of route would be approximately half the single way total.

Included in the proposed extensions is connection of existing surface lines with the lake front. This would be accomplished by short bus lines on Touhy avenue, Belmont avenue, Division street, Fullerton avenue, Irving Park boulevard, North avenue, Montrose avenue, 31st street, and 63d street.

The proposed extensions range in length from a few blocks to eight miles. The longest would be in California avenue from Fulton street to 72d street.

Major Routes Proposed.

Other major additional routes proposed are:

Yates avenue from 71st to 87th streets.

130th street from Indiana avenue east to Brainard avenue.

One of the extensions included in the proposal is already assured. This is the feeder bus line in Halsted street between 87th and 127th streets. New buses for this line are being built and the service will be started in about a month, surface lines officials said.

In Boat Mishap

MISS MARGARET HASTERT.

Two women burned when a cabin cruiser caught fire in Chicago harbor off Monroe street early yesterday were recovering last night. They are Miss Ruth Ellstam, 37 years old, 5216 North Paulina street, and Miss Margaret Hastert, 30, of 2300 Giddings street. Miss Ellstam, a secretary, suffered an injury to her eyes. Miss Hastert, employed as a governess in the Winnetka home of Harry Balaban, motion picture executive, was less painfully injured.

The cruiser, the Hauki, caught fire as Roy Boyd, 39, the owner, attempted to start it. Neither Boyd nor another man, whose name was not reported, were injured. The boat, valued at $7,500, burned and sank after drifting away and causing smaller fires on two other boats.

The coast guard cutter Escanaba yesterday found a sailboat and two men who left St. Joseph, Mich., Sunday and had been unreported since. They were Arthur Swanson, 27, of 892 Spruce street, Winnetka, and Archie Turner, 29, of Niles Center. The sailboat, delayed by slight winds, was just off Wilmette.

ONLY 2 HURDLES BAR AIRPORT TRACK REMOVAL

City and Railroads Seek Ordinance Agreement.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Only two major questions remain to be settled between the city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad in the proposed ordinance authorizing expansion of Chicago airport. This was announced last evening by Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, after a conference with railroad representatives.

"The city demands a listing of every item for which it must pay in connection with the airport enlargement," said Grossman. "The city must have a definite pledge by the railroad that we can have our new airport as soon as we fulfill our part of the contract. The railroad raises an objection on both these items."

Hinges on Removal.

The airport expansion hinges on removal of the Chicago and Western Indiana tracks from the area bounded by 55th and 63d streets, Cicero and Central avenues, that now is available for landing field purposes. The tracks bisect this tract along the line of 59th street, forming an obstruction that now permits the use of the southern half only.

The ordinance under discussion yesterday would bind the city to a contract to pay all costs of obtaining a new right of way for the railroad, and of shifting the tracks to this new right of way.

"We are insisting for the city," Grossman explained, "that all costs be specifically listed in the ordinance. The railroad wants the provision relative to cost to include the specified list and the phrase 'and all other expenses.'

Objects to Generality.

"We object to the generality. The city must protect itself from payment for any items not directly connected with the track removal.

"Our second point—that of demanding possession of the railroad's right of way across the airport as soon as we have carried out our side of the bargain—is also protective.

"We don't want to leave this point open. We want the full airport as soon as possible, not at the whim of the railroad. We don't want the railroad to say that it isn't quite ready to move after the new right of way is obtained and new tracks installed.".

He said that railroad representatives held this last matter to be nonessential to the ordinance. They say that the railroad is anxious to cooperate and will move as quickly as possible.

Drafting New Provisions.

During the day, Grossman declared, an agreement was reached upon the type of title that will be acceptable to the railroad for its new right of way. The railroad will receive in fee all land that can be purchased outright. It is willing now to accept land that must be condemned in the courts subject to reversionary rights, he said.

Grossman is to draft new provisions on the matters still at issue, and submit them to J. R. Barse, general counsel for the C. & W. I., who was present yesterday. This will be done today and new conferences probably will be held on Wednesday.

CORRIGAN PUTS PLANE IN HOME PORT, ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Douglas Corrigan put his $900 trans-Atlantic airplane in its home hangar here today when he arrived to taste this city's acclaim for his Dublin flight. The airplane, a Curtiss Robin, was manufactured at the Curtiss Airplane company shops on the field here in 1927.

Corrigan looked around the plant where modern 32 passenger transports now are being built and then accompanied Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann on a triumphal parade.

Earlier in the day Corrigan flew from Milwaukee to Springfield, Ill., escorted by a squadron of Illinois National Guard planes. He waited 10 minutes for Gov. Henry Horner who arrived in another National Guard ship from Rockford, Ill. The governor entertained the flyer at lunch and together they laid a wreath on Abraham Lincoln's tomb. Corrigan will fly to Memphis, Tenn., and Shreveport, La., tomorrow.

OWNER-FLYERS TO HOLD LIGHT AIRPLANE SHOW

Plan Event to Prove Flivver Ships.

An air show for light planes will be held at Harlem airport, 83d street and Harlem avenue, on Sunday, Sept. 25. It is being promoted without any attempt at profit by forty-five light plane owners who fly their own ships.

The show is intended to demonstrate to spectators that so-called flivver planes can be flown through virtually every maneuver that larger planes with more powerful motors can perform.

Hope for Annual Event.

For the pilots it will be a sporting event. There will be prizes, but prize winning will be secondary. The organizers hope that the show will become an annual competition for light ship flyers in the Chicagoland area.

"We decided to hold the show," explained Robert A. Morrow, 7252 South Maplewood avenue, one of the organizers, "to get the light plane owners together in some common project.

"There is a lot of flying in the small ships—more than in any other kind of privately owned aircraft, in fact—but the owners don't know each other. And no one who flies a light plane ever enters a meet in which he'll have to fly against machines that outclass his own. In this meet we'll get around that by allowing only light planes to enter."

Less Than 50 Horse Power.

The light airplane is defined as one with a motor of less than 50 horse power. There will be no weight limits. Most of the planes already entered are Piper Cubs, Aeroncas Taylorcraft, and Porterfield Zephyrs. Their engines range from 38 to 50 horse power. They cruise about 65 miles an hour and have top speeds of less than 100 miles an hour.

Because these little planes do not have enough speed for serious racing, Morrow and others on the contest committee, have worked out a program emphasizing flying skill. This includes obstacle races, precision landing competitions, bomb dropping exhibitions, stunt flying, three ship formation flying, and parachute jumping.

3 Film Workers Overcome by Heat in Los Angeles

ORTMAN ARRIVES TODAY TO GROOM PLANE FOR RACES

Earl Ortman, who set a new closed course air speed record of 265.539 miles an hour at San Francisco last May 30, is scheduled to arrive at Chicago airport from Los Angeles late this afternoon in his racing airplane. Ortman will keep his ship here until Sept. 1 and then proceed to Cleveland for the national air races which will be held on Sept. 3, 4, and 5.

Ortman's plane is the same Marcoux-Bromberg low-wing monoplane that he has been flying for three years. Last year he was second in both the Bendix transcontinental trophy race and the Thompson trophy race for 200 miles round a closed course.

While here Ortman will make a number of practice flights and also will make several motion picture reels as part of an advertising campaign for a Chicago meat packing company. His plane and its 1,100 horse power Twin Wasp engine will receive their final tuning up for the races.

TRIBUNE SCOUT CAR SPANS NEW BORDER BRIDGE

When Open Congestion to East Can Be Avoided.

BY HAL FOUST.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—The Tribune road car, this afternoon crossed the new $3,250,000 International bridge here. By special arrangements with Canadian and American border authorities the newspaper's highway scout car became the first tourist machine to traverse the structure. It will be opened to trafic next month at a date yet to be determined.

This bridge is to become a link in a new motor route between Chicago and eastern Canada and New England. It avoids city congestion encountered on the present route through Detroit.

The mileage from Chicago to points east of here will remain approximately the same as in going via Detroit. For western Michigan, however, this new span will afford a shortcut.

Work Almost Complete.

Little work remains to complete the improvement. The dedication, however, is awaiting a date convenient for President Roosevelt and Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, who will join in the international ceremony.

One hundred sixty feet over the rapid current of the St. Clair river laborers are painting the steel with an aluminum varnish over the red rustproofing coat. On plazas at each end workmen are finishing modernist buildings to house customs and immigration men. From this elevation the smoke of steamers could be seen to the north on Lake Huron. A long steamer slid south toward Lake Erie on the seven miles an hour stream. The shipping is part of a water trafic that is one of the heaviest in the world.

Displaces Two Ferries.

Below the bridge could be seen the two ferries that the more convenient facility will displace. Motorists will not wait fifteen minutes for a ten minute boat ride when they can use a bridge.

The improvement is a joint American and Canadian enterprise, negotiated without the red tape of treaties. The expense is shared. A commission headed by V. B. Steinbaugh, deputy highway commissioner for the state of Michigan, superintended the construction and will manage the improvement.

The bridge, sixty miles north of Detroit, has an overall length of 8,120 feet. The roadway will accommodate three lanes of vehicles. It also has a sidewalk for pedestrians. A toll is to be charged until the construction bonds are retired. Thereafter it is to be a free bridge.

DEFERS HEARING ON HORAN APPEAL FROM JAIL TERM

Justice William H. McSurely of the Illinois Appellate court yesterday deferred until Friday hearing on a motion made by Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court.

Horan is appealing the decision of twenty-five judges of the Municipal court to jail him for contempt of court until he reinstates fifty-five deputies he discharged last April.

His appeal states that the dissenting opinions of two other judges were excluded from the court record on the order of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby. These opinions, Horan held, are correctly a part of the record.

Wants Movie Money

MRS. SUE ARENDS.

Mrs. Sue Arends wants to go into the movies, she told Master in Chancery Francis J. Benda yesterday. But she has no funds to get to Hollywood because her former husband, Clinton Arends, is $750 in arrears on a divorce settlement.

"Her chance of becoming an actress is being retarded," Mrs. Arends' lawyer, Norman Becker, said. "She has a contract as a movie extra, but she has to get out there first. And she hasn't the money."

Master Benda then issued a writ of attachment for Arends to come to court and explain the arrearage. Mrs. Arends is 28 years old and lives at 3230 Palmer street.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF CITY TO OPEN NEW TERM SEPT. 6

Chicago public schools will open Sept. 6, the day after Labor day, school officials announced yesterday. This year the nine month term will be lengthened by the addition of a week at the start and one at the close next spring. Last year the opening was delayed three weeks because of an infantile paralysis outbreak.

Officials predicted that the trend toward smaller entering classes, caused by a falling birth rate, would continue. Last year the total enrollment was 408,988. This year they expect about 1,000 less.

Pupils this year will find more commodious accommodations in new additions at three high schools, Hyde Park, Waller, and Englewood. The new $1,000,000 Gage Park High school will not be ready until the end of the year. Building is under way on the Norwood Park High school and is to start this fall on the $3,650,000 vocational high school at 87th street and Anthony avenue.

STALLED AUTOIST ESCAPES TRAIN BUT NOT SHERIF

On the track was an automobile. At the wheel was a man trying to flag the freight train by waving a handkerchief above his head. It was 2 a. m. yesterday at a crossing three miles west of Libertyville.

He was William Bigel, 44 years old, a farmer living near Gurnee. A passenger train had just struck his car and shaken him up. Now the freight train threatened to do the same thing. Deputy Sherif Frank Valenta told him he was lucky and locked him up in the Lake county jail at Waukegan on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

GANG GUNS WITH BLOODY HISTORY CAST INTO PRIZES

Weapons used in prohibition gang wars by Chicago's public enemies were cast into mementoes for public heroes yesterday. They were among 600 guns melted in the Anderson Brothers Brass foundry at 1390 Fulton street, under the supervision of Coroner Frank J. Walsh.

Many of the weapons had bloody histories. One was a submachine gun used to kill Earl [Hymie] Weiss in front of Holy Name cathedral on Oct. 11, 1926. Others were used in the assassinations of George [Red] Barker in 1932 and Louis Alterie in 1935.

A dozen plaques were made from the metal. Inscribed "Public Hero," the plaques will be awarded from time to time. The first will go to Lige Debowski, civilian who killed two bandits last year.

FARM LAW A FAILURE.

The complete failure of the 1938 farm law is now apparent. It was passed when farm income was close to that which farmers had received in the long period of good times, before the New Deal and the depression. Its purpose was to sustain or further advance the income of farmers. It didn't do it. Farm income has had a setback, which, length of time considered, is the country's worst.

The farm law was passed when farm prices were at what would be a reasonable objective for national policy. The farm law, Mr. Roosevelt has been fond of saying, put a floor under the farmer's prices. The floor, if there is any, seems to be in the basement. Perhaps it is more appropriate to say that the floor was in an unsound structure and it gave way.

"The other vital thing about the act was reliance on the democratic process," Secretary Wallace said in a speech last March. "Washington isn't going to run the show" . . . "The management of the program will be by farmers elected by their neighbors." As every one must be aware, Mr. Wallace has been operating the scheme, without reference to the farmers, and with scant attention to the provisions of the law.

The 1938 farm act did none of the things promised for it. Farmers now realize that their condition is more unsettled than at any previous time. The project had to contend not only with weather here and elsewhere, industrial conditions, and the thousand and one economic incidents which affect prices, but also with the mistakes of the Washington burocracy. Wheat is now selling for just a little over 60 cents per bushel in the central markets, including storage and insurance charges up to September. That is about half of what it was before the farm act was passed.

All the other commodities named specifically in the act are also far below last year's prices. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Roosevelt will no doubt do something about it, but what they do is as likely to be harmful as helpful.

"The 1938 farm law has been developed from eighteen years of experience," runs a piece of propaganda broadcast by the AAA in Michigan. Was the loan of about 70 cents a bushel the product of eighteen years of thought, research, and experience? With considerably less preparation Mr. Wallace could have discovered that his plan would fail to keep the price up. His past mistakes with cotton could have set him wise in a few minutes.

It is interesting to read Mr. Wallace's statement of last March about the democratic process and how the farmers were going to have all the say about their law. The law made a referendum among corn farmers incumbent upon the secretary of agriculture when certain conditions were confronted. Last spring Mr. Wallace said he would have to use the democratic process if the corn supply amounted to as much as 2¾ billion bushels. When the new and old supplies ran ahead of this Mr. Wallace said, "O, did I say 2¾ billions; I mean 2.8 billions." And when that figure was exceeded he said, "O, wrong number; pardon the slip of the tongue, it is 2.9 billions." That's the democratic process for you.

There was a provision for a cotton loan in the law. If cotton fell to 8.27 cents a pound there would have to be loans. But when that figure was reached Mr. Wallace explained that the earlier statement was just an approximation. Carrying out the decimal, the accurate figure is 8.20. When cotton dropped some more the statement was made that there may have to be a loan. Heads there will be, tails there won't. The democratic process again.

The federal farm law represented the ideas of Wallace and Roosevelt. It was a repudiation of the proposals of George N. Peek and others for an export subsidy. But within the last few days reports have been coming from Washington that a plan was being worked out for the payment of a subsidy to make possible the export of 100 million bushels of wheat. The theory which had been denounced and rejected by Mr. Wallace a few months ago is now to be made the corner stone of a new national farm policy. Farm policies are apparently subject to a rapid rate of turnover.

With such a record of performance it is beyond belief that thoughtful farmers longer can have any confidence in the Wallace farm welfare scheme.

PROGRESS AGAINST SYPHILIS.

The directors of the Master Barbers' association have recommended that every barber in Chicago be tested for syphilis. Coöperation in the city's campaign against venereal disease has also been obtained from the schools teaching hairdressing and manicuring. Fifteen hundred students in these schools are receiving instruction regarding venereal diseases and are being encouraged to submit themselves to the simple and painless tests.

The time is near, if it is not already here, when proprietors of restaurants, soda fountains, saloons, barber shops, hairdressing establishments and similar establisnments where the employés come into more or less direct physical contact with the patrons, will post signs saying that all employés have been examined for communicable diseases and have been passed. The customers are justified in demanding that this inexpensive sanitary measure be taken in their behalf. Needless to say, if a few establishments lead the way, the rest will be obliged to follow if they wish to hold their patronage.

AT THE ELEVENTH HOUR.

Premier Daladier of France has announced in a radio speech that the forty hour week as it is now legally constituted in France must be modified. Otherwise, he says, France cannot compete either in military preparation or in world trade with rival nations.

At the same time M. Daladier has sent troops to break a strike on the Marseilles docks. The stevedores refused to work nights, Sundays, or holidays. Accordingly, soldiers have been ordered to unload ships bringing perishable vegetables from Algiers.

These are the acts of a strong government, determined to preserve France against foreign enemies and domestic disorder. A few years ago, and even a few months ago, the fall of a French government which would have undertaken either of these policies would have been predicted with much confidence. Blum the Socialist was made premier precisely for the purpose of establishing the forty hour week. He ended the sitdown strikes by giving the strikers what they demanded in face of clear warnings that to do so would be to undermine the national defense and the national economy.

Subsequent events in France have proved the soundness of the warning, but it is doubtful if domestic developments alone have encouraged Daladier to adopt the strong line he has now taken. A much more potent influence has been the seizure of Austria by Germany, the threat against Czechoslovakia, and the redoubled effort by Germany to fortify her western frontier. Daladier is counting upon the cumulative force of these events to bring Frenchmen to a sense of their peril.

What happens within the next few days and weeks in France will have immense significance. If Daladier retains the confidence of his cabinet, if organized labor calmly accepts the modification of the forty hour week and the use of troops to break the Marseilles strike, the world will have received notice that France is united and determined. Two members of the Daladier cabinet resigned almost as soon as the premier had announced his policy. If others follow this lead to the point of disrupting the government, and if there is another wave of strikes, Germany and Italy will be encouraged to discount French strength and to act accordingly.

M. Daladier must have known the risk he was taking and it may be assumed that he had reason to think he would be upheld by the vast majority of his countrymen. If his calculation proves to be correct his bold stroke may contribute to the dispelling of the war cloud which now hovers over Europe. If he has misjudged the temper of his people the danger of a European war in the next few weeks is heightened.

M. Blum accepted the New Deal as his model and said so. In consequence French industry was crippled, the nation's credit was overstrained, and her military and economic power was being frittered away. M. Daladier has sought to rescue his country from the extravagance and recklessness of New Dealism before it is too late. He promises a reduction of government expenditures and taxes and a return to tested principles of economics and government. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that the fate of Europe and perhaps of the entire world for several generations to come hangs on the success of his policy.

WHY MENTION THAT?

The political reporters do not vouch for the story of the suppression of Mr. Igoe's telegram at the Illinois Democratic state forgiveness festival of last week, but they are telling it. As it goes the United States district attorney, being invited to come on down and be among those who were letting bygones be bygones, replied by wire that he was too busy with the grand jury to take a day off. Mr. Igoe's activities as federal prosecutor are supposed to include an inquiry into the misuse of federal road money in the April primaries in which the Democrats of the state used fighting words in their criticism of one another's public spirit and integrity.

It was understood that Mr. Igoe didn't mean anything when he used the words "grand jury," but it was feared that if the telegram were read to the assembled forgivers and forgetters many of them might say, why bring that up? They might even have put out for home. There has been a good deal of talk of grand juries as a result of New Deal activities in other states. Pennsylvania has one which is trying to make a start investigating Mr. Earle, the second-to-none New Deal governor, and it has been rumored in the offices of Mr. Sheppard's campaign investigating committee that the New Dealers in Kentucky and Tennessee would be doing better than expected if they didn't find themselves in for some lawing.

It has been feared that the boys are getting too careless in the handling of the large chunks of federal money which are being thrown about where they will do the most good in the primaries. It seems to be desirable to keep grand juries in the background as much as possible, even to the extent of not mentioning them even without intending to scare anybody.

Some years back when Illinois politicians had been found in errors of judgment and accounting, which fortunately for them had not been discovered in time, a platform of one plank was suggested, reading in its entirety: "We point with pride to the statute of limitations."

Editorial of the Day

THE PURGE IN MARYLAND.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Without venturing so much as a single "God bless you, Millard," the President repudiated Senator Tydings as a betrayer of Democratic party policies.

The career of Senator Tydings in the senate has been notably free of heroics. He has held pretty firmly to a consistent set of beliefs. In accordance with these beliefs he fought the NRA, he opposed the devaluation of gold and the repudiation of the gold clause, he opposed the President's plan for packing the Supreme court, he consistently advocated economy in government and the balanced budget, and opposed measures embodying the alternative theory that a government may borrow its way to prosperity.

By and large, this body of principles coincides with those set forth in the party platform of 1932, on the basis of which Mr. Roosevelt was originally elected and which, prior to his election, he supported in numerous statements. Only on the theory that every time the President changes his mind party principles change with it can Senator Tydings be charged with "repudiation."

There is nothing sensational, nothing flamboyant, about adherence to a set of principles. It is dull. It is unromantic. It is unheroic.

It took the President of the United States, stooping to participation in a Democratic primary race, to make a hero out of Senator Tydings.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

MR. PEPYS' SUNDAY IN TOWN.

21st—To the baseball park of a Sabbath to see Master Hartnett's company of adventurers put down the sinister crew of Pirates in two games most neatly; and there to bask in the warm sun and refresh in the cool breeze, and to think, Lord, how fine the summer can be in Chicago now and then.

And to say, prompted by much cackle about the matter in the press and pulpit, "This is the perfect democracy." For one can go alone and unfriended to the baseball park, and lo, he sits down beside a couple of varlets of the city, who might be mere apprentices or chapmen for all he knows, and presently he finds himself talking to them and they to him like boon companions. And if he misses any of the fine points of the game they will tell him with honest wit and friendly merriment. Thus he comes to feel that these strange varlets are his friends and that all others assembled—a goodly multitude—are his friends also; and he is uplifted of spirit.

Verily, this is the true democracy, and the plain Americans invented it, and the chattering professors in the colleges, who are always "popping off," as one of my Sabbath varlets said, know nothing of the matter at all, because it is something that cannot be found in a book.

Chicago's Midinettes.

Chicago's working girls are the prettiest, the smartest dressed, and the healthiest in America. Clouds of them, descending upon the Loop in the morning or hurrying away in the evening, add brilliant gayety to the already colorful patterns of the city. Oldsters catch their merriment and smile, and even conservative and somewhat cynical judges of beauty have been heard to admit that, from almost any Loop intersection at morn or night, they could select from the passing throngs of girls in one hour's time a beauty chorus that would do credit to any theatrical production for stage or screen.

There is a hearty naturalness, a vivid variety, and definite virility about Chicago's working girls that maidens in other cities do not seem to have in such generous abundance. Travelers from other cities and other lands have remarked about the refinement, poise, and good taste of Chicago's office girls and waitresses. Now is the season of the year when they are at their prettiest and their highest degree of piquancy.

Culture in a Brewery.

Re Sieben's: This is the ancient brewery on Larrabee street in the heart of the German colony where entire families come in the evening to drink the light beer that flows straight from the storage tanks. In the old brick courtyard green tables are set up and white aproned waiters bustle about carrying as many as eighteen steins of beer at one time. There are flower boxes on the wall and oleanders in tubs and until recently it was gemuetlich and everything was dandy.

But now droves of college boys arrive each night and practically take things over. There is much bad singing, loud cheer leading, and throwing of pretzels. On one occasion they ravaged the oleander trees and tossed the pink blossoms at a young man who was so anxious to be noticed that he spent most of the evening standing on top of a table. Most of the culprits are of the "crew hair cut, Brooks coat, black and white saddle shoes" persuasion, which in collegiate circles is supposed to be evidence of the wearer's sophistication and good taste.

The reason for this lament is the hope that some of them will see it and be moved to mind their manners. However, if the urge to be conspicuous remains irresistible, will they please, dear God, let the oleander trees alone? J. B.

What ghosts are yours! There gentle Carton sleeps,
Shedding no more his bitter, futile tears;

SKILFUL FIRST AID WILL AVOID GAS GANGRENE.

As a people we are subjecting ourselves to the hazard of more bodily injuries than at any time in our history. This is due chiefly to the automobile and, secondarily, to industrial and farm machinery. Most of us recognize the importance of escaping lockjaw and the recommendation has been offered repeatedly that, with every deep, penetrating wound from which dirt and grime cannot be removed completely, tetanus serum should be utilized as a preventive.

But soil from the roadside or back yard carries another menace—namely, a gas forming germ [clostridium welchii], which may be avoided easily if due care is exercised. Neglected, however, infection with this microbe may occur. This accounts for the general practice, in severe lacerations—particularly compound fractures—of administering not only lockjaw, but gas antitoxin. The expense is slight when compared to the cost of a prolonged illness which may ensue.

Physicians regard these causative bacteria as criminals of the deepest dye. A patient may be making an uneventful convalescence when—almost without warning—there may be an abrupt rise in temperature, accompanied by a rapid increase in the pulse rate. The damaged region will be observed to bloat or swell and, when pressed upon, the tissues will give forth a crackling sound. Bubbles filter through the muscles, there is a marked tendency to shut off the blood supply, and a characteristic foul, mouse-like odor develops. The victim usually will complain of a generous amount of pain in the vicinity of the wound—a type of distress which has been absent hitherto. The skin at the edges of the affected area becomes dark red, the shade intensifying with each succeeding hour, thus foretelling the onset of gangrene, which spreads to the muscles. Sometimes a frothy discharge will point to the diagnosis. Unfortunately, in such a situation, we may know that some of the organisms have been carried into the tissues by soiled clothing or bits of dirt.

The trouble may confine itself at first to a single muscle, extending, for example, from a wound about the knee upward to the neighborhood of the hip. All other muscles may be free—at least, temporarily—but sooner or later they, too, will be contaminated. The fibers become soft, mushy, and dark, and seem to melt away under the onslaught.

How can we prevent such untoward infections? Thorough cleansing of every laceration must be the order of the day and it is far wiser to remove all particles of flesh which have been deprived of an adequate blood supply than to expect nature to digest and destroy them. The widest possible exposure to the air is always desirable and sometimes introducing a stream of oxygen into the diseased space is a helpful procedure. Even though the malady is in full bloom the injection into a vein of the so-called polyvalent serum, well diluted with normal salt solution, may be lifesaving. The great value of the antitoxin is in avoiding the necessity for amputation. Until the antiserum was perfected such infections meant almost certain sacrifice of the involved member. But more depends upon first aid—the skilful cleansing of all soiled parts—than upon all subsequent measures.

Recently a few reports have appeared concerning the benefits of sulfanilamide, which is now employed so successfully in combating other infections—chiefly those brought on by streptococci. In one case of gas gangrene, reported by Bohlman, the administration of this drug produced a dramatic result. Laboratory experiments are now under way which have led to the preliminary conclusion that this powerful compound will stop the growth of the Welch organism. It is an effective preliminary remedy in serious or crushing injuries.

GEOGRAPHICAL TONGUE.

M. B. writes:

1. What causes a geographical tongue?
2. Is there a cure?
3. If a tongue like this is deeply grooved in the middle, does this indicate anything serious? The sense of taste has not been affected.

REPLY.

1. Localized thickening of the surface layers may give the appearance of islands, oceans, and continents. Something has gone wrong with the general health. It is frequently a nutritional defect.
2. Constitutional measures to suit the individual case.
3. Of no consequence if the tongue is clean.

SYMPTOMS OF CANCER.

F. H. J. writes: I read recently that cancer is curable if treated during the painless stage. How then are symptoms of, say, cancer of the stomach to be recognized?

REPLY.

Sometimes early symptoms of gastric carcinoma are unrecognized because manifestations are so slight. Digestive disturbances which recur from time to time or which persist should be investigated. It is true that most of us exhibit minor symptoms occasionally which do not appear every day and after every meal or with any great regularity. These are of no significance.

MAY ADD TO WEIGHT.

M. R. S. writes: One of my friends who is quite stout drinks at least two or three straight whiskies before dinner and beer in between. He says that neither is fattening. I have noticed that most reducing articles state "no alcohol."

REPLY.

Alcohol is not fattening in and of itself, but it will produce energy to such an extent that fat and starches in the food will not be burned up. In consequence—if the diet is otherwise normal—these food elements may be stored with a gain in weight.

ONLY DEITY WALKS ALONE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Leadership is supposed to be an outstanding attribute of President Roosevelt, in the opinion of his followers. The President has nationalized "hate" throughout his political strategy since entering the White House. He has engendered within one class the spirit of hate against another class. It is obvious then that the hate he has created would reverberate against him.

Hate can never solidify a nation nor can hate perfect unselfish and unbiased reforms. No man is supreme. Only Deity walks alone. Man must walk with his fellow man and together guide one another. To be your brother's keeper does not imply you shall be his master.

WPA TIMEKEEPER.

A COURTEOUS YOUNG MAN.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—From time to time in your columns I have read of courteous acts. Let me tell of one. On Tuesday I was walking near the Edgewater Beach hotel. Suddenly a downpour of rain struck me, the wind was blowing very hard, making it impossible to run. An employé of the Shell oil filling station near by ran across to me with a raincoat and assisted me safely out of the storm.

I found his name was Joe Ahlenfeld, and I think the company for which he works would be proud to have such a kind and courteous young man in its employ. ALICE S. BUTLER.

—OR HOLD THY PEACE.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Where were the guardians of the constitution and private property when state's attorney's police raided the hand book on Aug. 17 at 29 West Randolph street, and without even a warant destroyed an estimated $15,000 worth of furnishings and, incidentally, destroyed the jobs of a number of employés? Guardians of the constitution, here is an opportunity to demonstrate your sincerity. Either register a bitter objection to this wilful destruction of private property or forever hold thy peace. JOHN NICKLEY.

ASKS ATTENTION TO THEIR ALLEY.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Having been a taxpayer for a good many years I feel I have a right to protest at least once through your columns about the condition of our alley. We are located between Jackson and Gladys avenue and Springfield and Hamlin. Several times we have gone to the proper authorities asking for action on the condition of this alley, but without result. B. A. G.

HER SAD ANNIVERSARY.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A man without a country or a man without a conscience—which is worse? It is just one year since the hit-and-run driver struck Jacqueline Elward, aged 3 years, and left her dying in the street. The legislature at Springfield has passed a drivers' license law and in the meantime the massacre goes on: The march of crime.

NELLIE ELWARD.

PRAISES ED SULLIVAN.

Hillside, Ill., Aug. 18.—Permit a God fearing, liberty loving American to compliment Ed Sullivan on his article of the 17th on the movie stars and communism, and especially for his remarks about the picture "Blockade."

The movies are one of the principal features of education these days, and if communistic tendencies are permitted there, God help our country.

O. MILLER.

A GREAT LIFE, BUT HARD ON PAVING.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Can you tell me who thinks up these projects for the WPA? Would it be possible to have examined the head of the man who ordered 83d street between Cottage Grove and State street ripped to pieces?

This particular street was one of the finest stretches of boulevard in Chicago. For ten years I have operated a service station midway in this section. In this time I have serviced thousands of drivers' cars and never once heard a complaint on the road.

But the WPA boys fixed all that. An army of them came down here a few weeks ago and dug ditches across the street, tearing out chunks, half of which they threw back into the holes which they dug and the balance to the side of the road. A minute examination disclosed that the reason for all this was that at spaces of about one hundred feet there were cracks in the black surface about wide enough to insert a dime. Two good men could have rectified the trouble in a day or so if the condition really needed attention. Where a few weeks ago cars breezed down the road, we now have that good old Chicago street song, Klump! Klump! Klump! The boss and the boys got tired though near the end of this short stretch. They left the last block or so go completely. The condition here was exactly the same as the rest of the street but they just didn't want to play any more.

In a year or so they should be back to pave the holes. This should be enough to allow the tires to crumble and the rain to undermine the balance of the pavement. Then with a few hundred thousand dollars' worth of streets ruined the WPA can chalk up another fifty thousand dollar project completed. It's a great life.

CLEANUP IS DUE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—I see the city council has passed an ordinance to enforce hazards on street corners, etc. Let's hope the police will get to work on this matter and not only clean up the hazardous corners but also remove all obstacles which are placed on parkways which I understand are city property, as well as clean up sidewalks now covered with fruit and vegetable stands.

Is it not a fact that the police department is supposed to take care of this, and why is it allowed in certain police precincts? Doesn't the captain of his precinct travel his territory?

A DAILY READER.

THAT SPRINGFIELD LOVE FEAST.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Well, what do I see on the back page of THE TRIBUNE? Nothing else but a picture of Uncle Henry Horner and Uncle Ed Kelly on the same platform at the state fair in Springfield throwing bouquets at each other.

What a life for the poor precinct captain who in the spring of 1936, again in the fall of 1936 and once more in the primary of 1938 called the other precinct captain all the names he could think of, and now they go hand in hand and call the Republicans all the names they can think of.

If my memory serves me correctly, and I am sure it does, I believe Uncle Henry said he wanted no part of the Kelly-Nash crowd, and Uncle Edward said the same thing about the Horner crowd.

To State's Attorney Courtney and County Judge Jarecki—I salute you as two fearless individuals who didn't attend the fair. H, N. S.

MIGHT USE THAT FURNITURE.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 20.—In one section of THE TRIBUNE I read where some unfortunate people were looking for second-hand furniture to furnish their homes. On turning to the back page I saw a large picture of the state's attorney's police breaking up some beautiful furnishings in a bookie. Something is sure funny somewhere. B. TENNEY JR.

Baraboo, Wis., Aug. 19.—I see the police are destroying furniture in Chicago gambling houses. Why not sell it? I could use a table and six or eight chairs in my rock garden, at a price. Why not realize something on this instead of chopping it up? A. CH. R.

IT CALLS FOR ANOTHER PURGE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Can we expect another trip into Canada by the President to carry out his purge against all who oppose him? Ontario's premier refuses to be a "liberal" with the taxpayers' money and declines to foist upon the people an additional burden of debt and taxation to build the St. Lawrence waterway. H. F. BAUMGARTNER.

MR. FARLEY COULD TELL WHY.

Cicero, Ill., Aug. 20.—I am employed in a small office and one of my duties is to take care of the mail. I am curious to know why there are ten different three cent stamps. I have pasted up all ten and they are all current issues.

Is it because stamp collectors are on the market for new stamps, or is there some other reason? M. M.

TVA COMMITTEE SHIFTS QUIZ TO UTILITY TACTICS

Open Propaganda Inquiry in Chattanooga Today.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—After a hot debate behind closed doors the congressional committee investigating TVA voted today to shift hearings to Chattanooga tomorrow. Charges of propaganda by power companies will be taken up for the first time in the inquiry. The Chattanooga hearings are to last two or three days.

As a result of the switch, which was made over the protest of the three Republican members of the committee, there will be no further hearings on the subject of yardstick rate making until after the November elections. The switch will also delay further hearings on the $5,000,000 marble claims of Senator George L. Berry against the TVA.

Sense Political Significance.

There were conjectures that the switch to power propaganda might have some political significance. Some believed that the change was prompted by a desire in Washington to offset the Berry marble revelations.

Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman of the committee, declared this line of conjecture was wrong. He pointed to the resolution creating the committee on investigation. This lists as one subject to be investigated the question of what activities private power companies have engaged in to affect the decisions of municipalities with respect to the purchase of TVA power.

In the heated debate on the Chattanooga move the minority committeemen, Senator James J. Davis [R., Pa.], Representative Charles Wolverton [R., N. J.], and Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.], battled in vain against the idea of cracking the investigation. They said it would be sufficient to send a subcommittee to Chattanooga.

Biddle Ready with Evidence.

Francis Biddle, committee counsel, had been in Chattanooga over the week-end, and reported he was ready to produce evidence on the activities of public utilities in Chattanooga.

The hearings there follow a request from the electric power board of that city that investigation be made of a petition to prevent issuance of bonds voted several years ago for a municipal system that would use TVA current. The purpose of the petition was to force a second election on the bonds, according to word from Chattanooga.

Before deciding to move the hearings to Chattanooga the committee heard additional testimony today from Director David E. Lilienthal of TVA. Lilienthal repeated charges he had made previously against Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed TVA chairman. He also described Dr. Morgan as "unreliable, reckless, and erratic."

2 DEAD, 51 HURT IN N. Y. SUBWAY REAR END CRASH

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Two men were killed, a third was seriously hurt, and fifty others were injured less seriously when two trains of the Lexington Avenue Subway line crashed today in a rear end collision at the 116th street station.

The cars collided with such force that the front of the second train and the rear of the first seemed almost welded together.

An excited woman, who attempted to leave the first train after the doors had closed, getting her hand caught in a door, started the chain of events which led to the fatal crash.

The train, just getting under way, was stopped when another passenger pulled the emergency cord. The oncoming train crashed into it.

The two dead were Salvatore Cotta, 43 years old, motorman of the second train, and Emanuel Auerbach of the Bronx.

TAXPAYER SUES TO HALT BERWYN HEALTH CENTER

A suit to restain the public health district of Berwyn from erecting a health center in the suburb was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Otto F. Vonesh, 3300 East avenue, Berwyn, as a taxpayer. He asserted the center would be an unreasonable burden on taxpayers and a waste of money. Known as the Berwyn health center, the proposed building would house a dental office, a fourteen bed hospital, a welfare clinic, and offices for the clerk, supervisor, and assessor of Berwyn township.

Police were told Eda was despondent over the ending of a love affair and because she could not get a better job. She was employed by a cleaning company in Evanston.

MOVE TO ENTICE MARINE WORKERS AWAY FROM CIO

Green Tells How Lewis May Be Squeezed.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—In a new thrust against the C. I. O. the A. F. of L. today authorized a maritime department embracing 500,000 seamen, longshoremen, truckmen, radio operators, and all other sea workers on all American coasts.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., predicted that the new organization would make it impossible for such C. I. O. affiliates as Joseph Curran's National Maritime union and Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union to continue to function.

May Tie Up Shipping.

With all maritime workers from ship captains to dock laborers and fishermen under technical jurisdiction of the A. F. of L. maritime department it would be impossible for employers to deal with the C. I. O. without facing a tie-up of all service under A. F. of L. control, Green indicated.

The federation's campaign to reëstablish its grip on the seaways was spurred by reports that the membership of the C. I. O. maritime unions were in rebellion against the communist sympathies of their leaders. Green said disillusionment of most C. I. O. seamen made him confident that they would rally to the A. F. of L.

International To Be Formed.

The first step in organization of the A. F. of L. maritime department will be to blend existing locals of sailors into an international union. Harry Lundeberg, whose sailors' union of the Pacific has between 8,000 and 10,000 members and who is rated as Bridges' most powerful foe, will be a leader.

On the Great Lakes, Green said, more than 4,000 sailors already hold A. F. of L. cards. The organization there is nearly complete.

QUARRY STRIKE LEAVES HENRY ON THE ROCKS

If the quarry workers at Wausau, Wis., hadn't gone on strike several weeks ago Henry J. Cunningham of 6313 21st street, Berwyn, wouldn't be in jail. That's what he said last night after he had been locked up in the detective bureau on a charge of larceny by bailess.

Cunningham is the operator of a monument works. The complainant is Policeman Thomas McNulty. McNulty ordered a tombstone last April, but it has never been delivered, although he paid down $210.

"That's right," said Cunningham. "He gave me the money all right and was to pay more. But I couldn't put up the stone because the strike at Wausau shut off supplies. The strike is over now and if I get out of here I can have the tombstone ready right away."

CHIEF OF LEGION HITS ACTIVITIES OF ALIEN GROUPS

Commends Work of Dies Committee.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Un-American activities were denounced today by Daniel Doherty, national commander of the American Legion, in a fiery speech before the state convention of the veterans' organization.

He praised the investigation of the Dies congressional committee on un-American activities and expressed the hope that after a full inquiry has been made a report will be given the American public.

Wants Red Quiz Facts.

"It is charged that certain government officials are associated with un-American works," he shouted. "If this is true it should be known.

"If Harry Bridges [Pacific coast C. I. O. leader] is being kept in this country through efforts of the secretary of labor or any one else, it is time the American people knew about it."

Among the resolutions brought before the convention are proposals calling for the deportation of criminal aliens and all foreigners who have not taken steps toward naturalization.

Gov. Henry Horner made a speedy trip here from Springfield by air and addressed the delegates briefly before dashing back to the capital. He was here only about twenty minutes. He was due to greet Douglas Corrigan, trans-Atlantic flyer, in Springfield.

4 EX-OFFICIALS OF MELROSE PARK SUED FOR $6,500

Suit for an accounting of funds allegedly diverted from the village of Melrose Park was filed in Circuit court yesterday on behalf of Andy Frenzel, president of the village. The defendants are four former village officials, Joseph I. Bulger, president; Frank K. Strzynecki, treasurer; Albert W. Hahn, clerk, and Michael Provenzano, controler.

According to the bill the defendants on July 16, 1934, authorized payment of an alleged false claim of $6,500 to Reinhold Tomm, father-in-law of Bulger. Tomm has since died. The suit asks the return by the defendants of the $6,500 plus $583 in interest, and also for an accounting of any other money diverted from the village.

The nature of Tomm's claim was not learned.

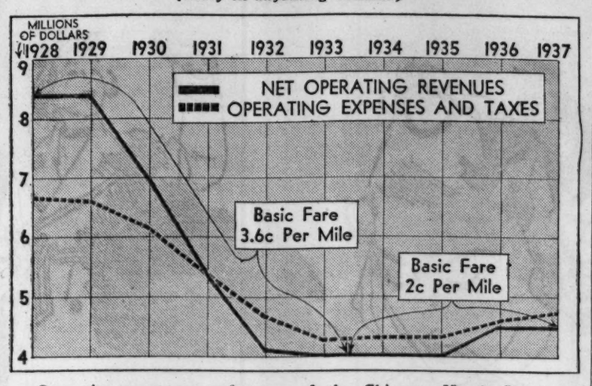
Financial Losses on North Shore Line

(Story in adjoining column.)



Operating expenses and taxes of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad have been in excess of operating revenues every year since 1932, Albert A. Sprague, receiver, said yesterday. Revenue in 1937 was only 57 per cent of the 1928 revenue, while expenses were only 30 per cent lower. The big drop in revenue in the early depression years was accentuated by a decrease in the basic fare (rates fixed for one way rides by interstate commerce commission). The rate was cut from 3.6 cents per mile to 2 cents per mile at the end of 1933.

DEATH ALONE BREAKS MATRIARCH'S 67 YEAR LOYALTY TO HER HOME

When Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lantern and started the fire that burned down Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house, Cornelius Kinnally, the railroad engineer, had to look for a new place to live. He moved to the south side and built a cottage at 29 West Garfield boulevard. When it was completed, he married Laura Burke in old St. Anne's church.

Cornelius Kinnally went into the coal business. He prospered. He tore down the cottage and built a great house with a ballroom for his children. When the children began marrying, he moved the house down the street and put up an apartment building for them. Many came to see it, for it had electric lights.

There, Mrs. Kinnally died last Sunday, eight years after her husband's death. She had lived 67 years of her 90 years there.

In those years she had seen the horse cars go, and the lake front pushed farther and farther east. St. Anne's church had been rebuilt. The neighborhood had changed. But the family home of the Kinnallys remained.

Mass will be said at St. Anne's at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. Mrs. Kinnally's six children will be present: John, Daniel, and Frank Kinnally and Mrs. Loretta Klingele, Mrs. Margaret Strigl, and Mrs. Sally Eastman.

NORTH SHORE LINE UNION DISPUTES NLRB AUTHORITY

Amalgamated Overruled at Strike Hearing.

Tracks of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad continued to collect rust yesterday as efforts to settle a strike of 1,300 employés proceeded slowly. No trains have been operated since the walkout last Tuesday.

So far there have been no conferences between representatives of the striking unions and the management. Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver, has declined to negotiate until a bargaining agent for the men has been named by the National Labor Relations board.

Strikers Challenge NLRB.

Thomas H. Kennedy, examiner for the NLRB, opened a hearing yesterday on this point. Attorney O. David Zimring, representing the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, challenged the authority of the NLRB. He was overruled by the examiner.

Four other unions claim bargaining rights for certain North Shore employés, 900 of whom are members of the Amalgamated. C. H. Smith of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, urged haste in the choice of a bargaining agent. He presented evidence to show that at least 176 workers prefer his organization to represent them. The hearing, which may last several days, will be continued tomorrow.

Fight Over Pay Slash.

The strike was precipitated when the receiver obtained a court order permitting him to slash the wage scale 15 per cent.

A bondholders' committee has suggested that the old scale be kept, with the receiver empowered to pay up to 15 per cent in receivers' certificates.

This plan was being considered by Conciliators Harry E. Scheck and John A. Moffitt yesterday in a meeting with Attorneys Robert F. Carney and H. William Ihrig, representing the bondholders. Representatives of the railroad said this plan would be futile, as there was no prospect the script could ever be paid.

Thomas McCue, Assistant Stateville Warden, Dies

Thomas P. McCue, assistant warden at Stateville penitentiary, died of a heart ailment yesterday in his quarters at the prison. He was 45 years old. Mr McCue entered the state penal service in 1933 and was assistant warden at Pontiac reformatory until June, 1937, when he became assistant to Warden Joseph Ragen at Stateville.

RALPH H. NODINE, CHICAGO SCOUT EXECUTIVE, DIES

Ralph H. Nodine.

Ralph H. Nodine, Scout executive of the Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, since September, 1937, died yesterday in Newton, Mass. He had returned to his former home in West Newton recently and suddenly became ill from a serious infection. An emergency operation was performed last Thursday.

Mr. Nodine, who was 42 years old, was at one time a teacher at Culver Military academy.

Fall Wedding Outfits Rich and Glowing

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Not all summer romances come to naught, the trousseau makers firmly believe, for the newest early fall and winter wedding outfits are now unpacked. September has gradually but tellingly taken a lot of the rosy glory away from June as a month for fashionable weddings. More eye filling pageantry is possible in September and the following months.

The first luscious fabrics, the newest rich and glowing color schemes, are to be found now. The most exciting stuff is stiff, stand-alone satin, gleaming in colorful perfection, doubly refreshing after weeks of flimsy sheers and pastels.

Brocaded satins are breath-taking. The colors have been copied from the old French prints—blues resembling mist, rose reds resembling coral, dull greens and dusky golds all faithfully reproduced from the court costumes painted by Natteer Fragmard and Lancret. The colored satins brocaded, solid color or the fascinating striped effects, are used for the full skirted bridesmaid's gowns. Tiny, exactly fitted bodices and elbow length sleeves, with deeply cut-out square necklines, keep the lovely old romantic flavor. The skirts are so wide as to have some of the hoop skirt air, but the satin is stiff enough not to need hoops. However, new petticoats are worn, showing beneath the hem.

Satin wedding gowns are magnificent. Ranging in color from deep parchment ivory to a sheen that shimmers like the first frost, they are fitted and designed to grace the most splendid occasion. Precious lace, heirloom treasures and new acquisitions, trims the deep necklines, the edges of sleeves, and hangs in festoons around the very wide, full skirts or, as in one serenely beautiful creation, is used as vertical double bands from front neckline to hem. Satin for September brides and bridesmaids promises some extraordinarily beautiful weddings.

Park Jammed by Followers of Swarthout

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If mellow and crumbling old Bush conservatory had weathered the depression and were still the near-north side landmark that it was for many years its entire faculty and student body would have been down in Grant park last night to see one of the school's most distinguished alumnæ receive what was probably the biggest ovation of her career.

For Gladys Swarthout, the little girl from Deepwater, Mo., whose road has already led to the stages of the Metropolitan and Chicago operas and into the studios of the haughtiest movie and radio magnates, sang before an audience whose enthusiasm matched its size. And this is saying something, for the great area south of the band shell offered nothing but standing room and very little of that. Hundreds of persons exiled to the extreme end of the field were forced to depend for their view of the proceedings on pocket mirrors held high above their heads.

It was a sound instinct which prompted the use of such a device, for Miss Swarthout is definitly worth seeing as well as hearing. Slim and comely and girlish—it is incredible that she was doing major rôles here fourteen seasons ago!—she smiled her dazzling smile and bowed her gracious bow again and again through the evening. A flowing scarlet gown which revealed a pair of summer brown arms did nothing to detract from the beauty of the picture. Neither did the knot of flowers which topped a dark, bell-shaped head of hair.

Abetted by Leo Kopp and the Chicago Opera orchestra, this singer who was recently a contralto and who now calls herself a mezzo-soprano essayed nothing less than that standard coloratura test-piece, Rosina's "Una Voce" from "The Barber of Seville." Miss Swarthout negotiated its stratospheric turns successfully, a remarkable feat even in view of the fact that the piece was transposed for her benefit. Only a semi-tone, they say. The singer's other operatic offerings were the "Voce di Donna" from "La Gioconda" and the "Seguidilla" and "Habanera" from "Carmen."

To prove that the Grant park public knows the difference between the great and the not so great in music, there were gasps and shouts of excitement when the announcer mentioned the "Ave Maria" as the singer's next offering. These subsided quickly and cleared the air for a disappointed "Aw" when he went on to explain that this was not the Schubert song but the one based on the intermezzo from "Cavalleria."

The "Ave Maria" was one of a group of miscellaneous songs which included "Songs My Mother Taught Me," "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," "When I Have Sung My Songs," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Swarthout sang darkly and tensely, with strongly emotional overtones in her colorings and a powerful drive to her phrasing. Even in the most agile passages she never becomes headlong but always retains a deeply personal quality in her singing. Her tempi, in fact, are nearly always quite slow.

A somewhat clipped delivery, a manner of singing which is hostile to a really flowing legato, is about the only fault one can find in her work. Sometimes, also, a slightly theatrical emphasis on the last note of a song and a toss of the head to indicate finality detract a little from the general air of fine sincerity which marks her singing.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[Tribune Studio Photo.]

Protect the delicate skin around the eyes by the diligent use of a good eye cream. It will help ward off the crow's tracks by night and beautify by day.

Eye creams are what might be called 24 hour creams. They serve as necessary lubricants at night and as protective beautifiers during the day.

It's the tiny little lines that grow into wrinkles and after they reach that stage there isn't a thing to be done for them. So catch them while they are young and defeat their purpose.

Generous lubrication is the best preventive. An eye cream that stands out in front is one that is rather heavy in consistency, but oily enough to do some good. It is about the color of beeswax and has a nice, clean fragrance. Smooth on a film of cream and pat it in gently, with the cushion of your finger. Start at the inner, upper corner of the eye and work outward on the upper lid, then around inward to the lower inside corner.

This will help ward off the crepiness and the fine lines that find this spot such fertile ground.

The protective schedule can be carried on by day by spreading a little over the lids. This adds a sheen that is flattering while protecting the sensitive skin, and adds lustre to the lashes.

It would be a pretty dull world and there'd be a lot of dead looking "pans" if all the women in the world refused to laugh because of the laughter wrinkles that formed around the eyes. Most of us, fortunately, would rather laugh and be gay, and even run the risk of getting a few more lines worrying about the ones we already have, than go around with an expressionless face. But whether the wrinkles are from laughter or worry or inevitable age creeping up on one, a woman is foolish not to resist them and to protect the skin around her eyes. This is an area that needs more attention than the rest of her face—how much attention depends upon her age, but the wise woman will start early and oil seven days a week. FLORENCE MURDOCH.

Armour-Henry Nuptials Take Place Nov. 5

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE marriage of Miss Julia Rush Biddle Henry, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Charlton Henry of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Philip Danforth Armour IV., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour III. of Lake Forest, will take place on Nov. 5. A number of Chicagoans will go to Philadelphia shortly before that date, for undoubtedly all of the members of the large Armour clan will want to see their young kinsman married.

Miss Henry, who visited in Lake Forest shortly after her engagement was announced at the end of June, will be here again next month. She is coming west soon after Sept. 1. She is spending the summer with her mother at Cedar Lodge, their home in Rockport, Me. The Armours are visiting there now after a visit with Mrs. Armour's mother, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, at Southampton, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Armour will return to their Lake Forest home next Monday.

Plan to Entertain at Onwentsia Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Armour and Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King are entertaining at the regular Thursday dinner-dance at the Onwentsia on Sept. 15 for Miss Henry and Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, debutante daughter of the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors. Miss Taylor will make her debut at a ball on Sept. 17 at the Lake Forest home of her parents. Preceding the ball Mr. and Mrs. Farwell Winston will entertain at dinner for their cousin, Miss Taylor, at Fairlawn, the home of Mr. Winston's mother, Mrs. Robert G. McGann.

Mrs. McGann and the late and first Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor were sisters, two of the three noted and beautiful Farwell sisters of Chicago. The third is Mrs. Reginald De Koven of New York. The Wayne Taylors, who have been living in Washington, D. C., for several years, are coming west next month especially to give their daughter a Lake Forest debut. She was introduced to Washington society at a tea early in June. The family is spending the summer on Long Island.

Mrs. Taylor will arrive in Lake Forest on Sept. 6 and her daughter comes on the 15th. The Charles W. Dempsters, who have been occupying the Taylor house since July 1, will move back to town on Sept. 1. The Otis Chatfield-Taylors, who are living in Chicago, will have returned from their vacation by the time their niece makes her debut. They left Sunday for a visit with his sister, Mrs. Chatfield Whitman of Boston, at her summer home in Manchester, Mass. They expect to be back home on Sept. 6.

Miss Miriam Bartlett Will Bow on Sept. 9.

Invitations are out for the debut tea of Miss Miriam Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney F. Bartlett of Winnetka, on Sept. 9. The party will be given at their home, 711 Sheridan road, and if the weather is fair the garden will be used. Also the garden of the adjoining estate, that of Col. and Mrs. N. L. Howard, who are close friends of the Bartletts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett will give a late supper and dance in town for their daughter and her assistants and their escorts that night. On the Sunday following the debut, Sept. 11, Mrs. Fred Wilson Fairman is giving a buffet luncheon for Miss Bartlett at the Fairmans' Indian Hill road home.

Department Stories

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 22.

I. O. U. Department—Are the Hollywood celebs what the boys call "good pay"? Do they, in other words, welsh on their gambling debts? Biggest gaming house on the coast will show you the answer in the form of $300,000 worth of I. O. U.'s and worthless checks. The toll is about $60,000 a year.

Corrigan Department—Douglas Shearer, head of the MGM sound laboratories, flies back and forth from work daily, piloting his own plane. "What kind of a ship is it?" Dick Merrill asked him. "It's a Corrigan, 9 years old," said Shearer. Merrill and Shearer agree that pilots make bad airplane passengers. If a pilot is in his cabin, flying a ship, or copilot-ing a ship, he is all right. If he goes back into the passenger cabin, it's 10 to 1 he will get badly upset.

Money-in-the-Bank Department—Bob Taplinger, publicity chief at Warner's, talking to Bette Davis, suddenly recalled that he had been given a hot race track tip and told her to bet on it. "Suppose he loses?" asked Bette. "The only way he can lose is to drop dead," Taplinger bragged. So Bette made the bet. Skiing, the horse, dropped dead in the race.

History Department—Harry Richman goes into the Clover club on Thursday. A block or so away, Bob Grant's orchestra is playing at the Trocadero. The Grant-took-Richman puns are inevitable.

Dog Department—Norman Krasna resigned his MGM post to enjoy a sabbatical holiday. It was impossible to take his dog to Europe. What to do? Krasna will keep his house and servants to take care of the dog. Silly? I suppose so, but the nicest things always are silly. That's what makes them so nice.

Honesty Department—W. C. Fields' next picture, which is being prepared at the moment, has an unusual title: "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." I asked him how he had struck on such a title. "The only person who can be cheated is a person who is dishonest himself," explained Fields.

"Card sharks, confidence men, bunco men and goldbrick experts trade on their clients' dishonesty or larceny. They show you how to win money on a sure thing, and the larceny in you does the rest. The fur racket is the same idea. A fellow approaches you and offers to sell you some furs cheap, and he explains the low price by whispering that they are stolen furs. You can't cheat a thoroughly honest man. I'll go beyond that and say that you can't even find one."

Air Weight Department—A few days ago I took a lady friend of the family to the airport. She weighed, it developed, 108 pounds and her baggage weighed 65 pounds, a total of 173 pounds. The next customer was a man. He weighed 195 pounds, and his baggage 35 pounds, a total of 230 pounds. Yet the girl, representing a total weight of 173 pounds, had to pay more than $20 excess, for baggage is limited to 35 pounds. The inequality of such a scale of weights is something that the airlines will have to overcome before they are completely successful.

Gangster Department—In eighteen years of reporting I met a lot of mobsters, quite a few of whom were exploded out of circulation. The screen has attempted to portray gangsters, and such experts as Edward G. Robinson, Clark Gable, Jim Cagney, Humphrey Bogart, et cetera, have gone to their makeup boxes to dig out a resemblance. None of them, from the mobster standpoint, have been successful. The only screen gangster who actually could pass in a mobster assembly is Marc Lawrence, in "I Am the Law." In fact, he is so close to the real thing that you can wonder how he got hired.

Vacation Department—Jack Benny, in the last two weeks, made reservations for Mexico City and canceled them. Then he made reservations at Saratoga, and canceled them. Then he decided on a trip to the High Sierras, and canceled. Finally, he decided on what he wanted to do: he'd go to Waukegan and see his father. His business manager, Myrt Blum, who by this time was going daffy, pulled strings here and there and obtained a compartment on the Super Chief, leaving tomorrow night for Chicago. A few hours ago, Don Ameche visited Benny's home. An hour later Benny and Ameche were on their way to June lake to fish.

Bag Packing Department—Which reminds me that your correspondent at present is in the throes of departure preparations. After eleven months out here, I'm heading east at the end of the week for three weeks in New York and Chicago. I'll do the column from the east and the midwest, and let you know what the folks east of the Rockies are doing and what they're thinking about Hollywood entertainment. From Sept. 1 to Sept. 13, you can address me at Lowe's State theater, New York; from Sept. 14 to Sept. 20 you can locate me at the Chicago theater in Chicago.

Amateur Bands to Seek Swing Prizes Tonight

Fifty amateur bands are to compete for cash awards and trophies in the Swing Jamboree to be held tonight in Soldiers' field under the sponsorship of Mayor Kelly's New Century committee. Their efforts will be reinforced by entertainment furnished by some of the city's leading professional dance orchestras.

The public has been invited to attend. There is no admission charge. Three dance platforms, each 50 by 100 feet, have been constructed on the field and the audience may have its choice of participating in the livelier forms of foot shaking or of sitting, listening and watching.

Among the well-known bands that will perform are those of Abe Lyman, Shep Fields, Jimmy Dorsey, Frankie Masters, Dick Jurgens, and Earl Hines. Each will play briefly and then return to their regular engagements in hotels and night clubs. The swing competition of the amateurs is expected to go on far into the night.

Well known entertainers, including Bill Robinson, the tap dancer, will appear as volunteers and do their specialties.

The program will open with the playing of "Heigh Ho Chicago," a tune written for the occasion by Marvin Lee and Frank Magine, by Terry Tracy and Bob Roberts' band. Thereafter the audience will be allowed to test the quality of the rhythm of the contestants.

James C. Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and a member of the park board, will be one of the judges in the swing contest.

Illinois Central Will Stop Switching for Grant Park Soloists

Discords tossed into the free Grant park concerts by Illinois Central trains are going to cease. Listeners have noticed at past concerts that there was a lot of car crashing and engine puffing between 9 and 10 o'clock, just when the sopranos and the bands were making their most earnest efforts. This was due to the switching of cars carrying perishable freight.

Representatives of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and the park board conferred with J. V. Lanigan, the road's passenger trafic manager, and then announced he had promised to see that the switching is completed before 9 p. m. The arrangement will be in effect at all important concerts, beginning with Alec Templeton's recital tomorrow night.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne writes to invite her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Anne receives a letter of acceptance from the Trainors. Riding alone Anne is thrown from her horse.

A TIMELY RESCUE.

Planning busily what her next move would be, now that she had the funds to go ahead, Anne was too absorbed in her thoughts to notice a bunch of cattle grazing by one of the buttes, until she was almost on them.

She held herself firmly in hand, and muttering, "I will not be afraid!" kept on at her same pace, pretending not to notice, as the cattle lifted their heads and stared at her.

Skirting off to make as wide a detour as possible, Anne imperceptibly hastened her step.

If she could make the butte and scramble up the rocky side of it she would be safe, but the cattle were between her and the haven. Nothing to do but keep on and pretend not to be afraid.

A low ominous noise behind her broke her morale. In spite of herself, she began to run. There were crashing hoofbeats that grew to a thunderous roar as the huge animal charged, bellowing with rage.

Dodging with a timing that was more a matter of instinct than calculation, Anne felt the beast rush past.

With the speed of desperation she made for the butte. The steer, thoroughly maddened by now, swung about and followed. Again Anne dodged and the great weight of the animal carried him past her.

A shout broke through her panic. She swerved in her course, to glimpse a horse and rider bearing down on her.

Suddenly she felt herself whirled off her feet by the grip of strong arms. For a moment everything faded away in a rushing wave of darkness.

When she opened her eyes she found herself swung up in front of some one on a horse, racing at breakneck speed across the mesa. The angry bellowing of the steer receded into the distance.

Too bewildered and unstrung to even make the exertion of finding out whose arm it was that held her tightly against a strong body, Anne relaxed in the grateful security.

Gradually the speed slackened. Anne glanced around to meet Steve's blue eyes, with a brilliant, unfathomable light in them.

"Don't you know enough not to be on foot when cattle are around?" he demanded. His shaken voice showed the strain of the last few moments. "Hasn't your precious Whitey told you that yet?"

The thanks that trembled on Anne's lips gave way to a primitive desire to hit back at this sarcastic reference to Whitey.

"Certainly, Whitey's told me that, it isn't his fault I was thrown." Anne straightened up as best she could. In spite of her dismayed thought, "O, dear! We're quarreling again!" her overstrained nerves goaded her on. "Thanks for having come to the rescue. I'm all right now. Will you please put me down?"

Steve's arm tightened around her waist.

"I will not. There are too many cattle grazing around here. I'll have to see you home. For Pete's sake, don't go out on the mesa alone again, until you know how to ride."

Tears of rage and humiliation sprang to Anne's eyes. Not for anything in the world was she going to be in his debt for more favors! She struggled against his hold.

Steve pulled Dynamite to a halt.

"Just as you say." He dismounted and lifted her down beside him. "I'll follow you until you get home."

Anne didn't dare trust her voice to protest. She turned, and started for the X Bar Nine, with Steve following at a distance of about twenty paces.

After ten minutes or so of this procedure Anne's anger, always short lived, began to give way to the obvious humor of the ridiculous situation.

"I think I'm behaving ridiculously!" She smiled up at him, "I really am grateful, even if I don't seem so. Will you forgive me and give me a lift home, after all?"

In an instant, Steve was off his horse, his blue eyes alive with the expression Anne remembered so well from that first day.

"You ride Dynamite and let me lead him," he answered, with quick response to her offer of a truce, "I wouldn't dare——" he broke off abruptly.

"Wouldn't dare let me ride him alone," Anne laughingly finished for him. She put a hand on the pommel and swung into the saddle, adding as she looked down at him, "I don't mind what you say about my riding. I'm feeling very humble about it, right this minute."

Steve looked approvingly at her in the saddle. "You're coming along," he admitted, but his eyes clouded, "Whitey's doing a good job." Without another word, he turned and led the way to the ranch.

"I've just had wonderful news," Anne said, breaking a silence that threatened to prolong itself indefinitely, "I have money enough now to stock up the ranch and get more of an outfit. I wrote to my former boss and told him about the ranch. I asked him if he and his family wouldn't come out for the summer and offered a reduction if they'd pay in advance. I've just had a letter saying they'd come. That's what made me get gay with Rocket. If you hadn't come along my scheme wouldn't have been good for much!"

Steve acknowledged her thanks with the quick grin that lighted up his face so attractively. "That steer was sure hell bent to play Jake Collins' game," he observed, "but I reckon we can't pin that move on Jake. I hear, though, that he's planning to fence in the water holes. That's mighty serious."

"He hasn't any right to do it, Tim says. I'm not going to stand for it." Steve brought Dynamite to a halt, his eyes sober.

"It's perfectly true that Jake Collins hasn't any right to do it, but that won't bother him. He'll do it anyway, and you won't be able to stop him. The advice I gave you when you first landed here still seems to me best. Sell the ranch, and clear out."

Anne slowly shook her head. "My answer now is the same, only more so. I won't let Uncle Ned down by giving in to Jake Collins without a struggle."

"O, you mustn't call the Trainors dudes!" Anne said. "They wouldn't come to a dude ranch. I don't believe this trouble with the Triangle Three would keep them away. Mr. Trainor loves a fight. If Jake Collins tries to pull anything while he's here, I know he'll stand up for me. I want to give the Trainor family the most wonderful time they've ever had! What I'm really hoping is that they'll like it so much they'll want to buy some of the ranch and keep it for a summer place."

Anne broke off in surprise to hear herself voicing this dream that she had hardly admitted to herself as yet. "Don't breathe a word of that, though," she added.

"I won't," Steve let out a sudden chuckle, "but I'd sure like to see Jake's face if someone else stepped in and picked up some of the ranch! Boy, would there be fireworks! He's been warning everyone to keep hands off, but I reckon he couldn't stop Mr. Trainor, from what you say."

GASOLINE ALLEY—RAIN CHECK?

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Talk About the "Whether"

Don't Discuss Each Move with the Small Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

He's three and already he takes issue with his mother on little routine things because she's bending over backwards and giving him elaborate explanations for everything she wants him to do. It's "Why?" at each step of the way; and consequently there's a lot of wear and tear on his mother, and also wear and tear on him, because his days should be smooth and calm under the guidance of a benevolent ruler who is firm, yet gentle and loving.

Don't make this sort of mistake, with your small children especially. It's one thing to treat your children as intelligent human beings, to answer their questions and give them explanations. But it's another thing to let them get into the arguing habit.

When we start forming the baby's habits he is too little for explanations. When he gets to the walking and talking age he still has much physical routine to learn: eating, naps, toileting, washing, dressing, and so on. The less talk there is about all these things and the more they are put across with a taken-for-granted air, the better for everybody.

Later, when the small boy or girl has to put away his or her own toys, hang up his or her clothes, and do other coöperating things, you can still take for granted a willingness to help.

When questions come up, when "Why must I?" begins, or "I don't want to," endless argument is not going to provide the way to accomplishment. One explanation or a simple friendly talking over of things is enough. The way you'll really gain the best results is by your combination of tactfulness and jollity and by your of-course-you're-going-to manner.

This having it back and forth is not good for a child. And as a rule he usually uses arguing, quite unconsciously, as a trick to put off the evil hour of bed, or bath, or meal, or whatever it is he's supposed to do but doesn't want to. Of course, with the older child it's quite different—there are many things we do need to talk out with him at some length.

Transfer Pattern Makes Viking Ship for Wall Hanging

BY NANCY CABOT.

All boys are ship-minded, whether the object of their affections be a Viking ship or sail boat, so the hot iron transfer pattern of this handsome sailing vessel, illustrated today, will make an ideal wall hanging for a boy's room, if used with natural linen crash, embroidered in brilliant colors, and framed in natural wood. As a pillow top this same yessel adds another decorative touch to a room. Included in the transfer pattern are several small Viking ships which may be used at each end of a runner for the table of a boy's or man's room. It is not a long or tedious embroidery job, but one which may be accomplished in a few hours.

The Housewife

Have you seen the little tin shells for poaching eggs? They are clever because you can fasten them on the inside rim of any pan. They're quickly attached by a little piece of metal, like a clip. And when the eggs are cooked they may be served in this container.

To do the poaching simply put about one-half inch of boiling water in the bottom of the pan. Cover it and let the eggs steam until they are cooked, for about two or three minutes. They retain all their vitamines as they do not when you dump them in a pan of water. These poach-egg shells are most inexpensive.

MOVIE CLOSEUP

There will be a special sneak preview of a new musical production at the Palace theater at 9:45 o'clock tonight. The picture will go on immediately following the last stage performance which will start at 8:45. The final showing of "Mother Carey's Chickens," the theater's regular screen attraction, will follow the preview.

In most homes breakfast is a business during the week. But on week-ends it becomes a pleasant social occasion. There's more time to eat it, and more time to cook it. That's when quick breakfast breads are appreciated.

If the cook gets up half an hour early on weekday mornings, these hotbreads may gladden other breakfasts than Saturday's or Sunday's. But they shouldn't be wasted on a family which eats and runs five or six mornings out of seven, no matter how good the breakfast is. They're worth more attention than that.

Spiced Coffee Cake.
[9 Inch Pan.]

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
5 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
½ cup currants or raisins

Topping: 1½ tablespoons melted butter, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, and spices together. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture all at once, stirring carefully at first. Then add currants and stir vigorously until mixture is blended. Turn in greased 9 inch pan and spread the dough evenly. Brush the top with melted butter and sprinkle with a mixture of the other ingredients listed for the topping. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, for 25 to 30 minutes.

Bishop's Bread.
[2 8-inch Pans.]

2½ cups flour
1¼ cups brown sugar, packed firmly
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup sour milk

Sift flour once, measure, and add sugar and salt. Cut in shortening until the mixture resembles coarse meal. Take out ¾ cup of the combination to sprinkle over the top of this coffee cake. To the rest of the flour mixture add baking powder, soda, and cinnamon. Add egg and sour milk and beat until smooth. Pour into 2 greased 8 inch pans, sprinkle with the crums and additional cinnamon. Bake 25 minutes at 400 degrees.

Raisinscotch Rolls.
[1 Dozen.]

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons shortening
⅔ cup milk
½ cup raisins
¼ cup chopped nuts
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1 tablespoon water

Sift flour, measure, and resift several times with baking powder, salt, and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut in the shortening. Add milk graduaily to make a soft dough. Knead gently for several seconds and roll or pat out rather thinly. Brush dough with melted butter and sprinkle with raisins, nuts, cinnamon, and the remaining tablespoon of sugar. Roll dough jellyroll fashion and cut in ¾ inch slices. Grease a baking pan and cover the bottom with a mixture of the brown sugar, shortening and water. Place rolls over this and bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 15 minutes.

Currant Breakfast Bread.
[9 by 12 Inch Pan.]

1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ cup currants
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon sugar [for topping]

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Cream shortening and beat in sugar. Add unbeaten egg and mix well. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Pour batter into greased pan. Mix currants with cinnamon and the tablespoon of sugar, and sprinkle over the top. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Break in pieces and serve hot with butter.

Takes to Varied Styling

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

There are so many ways in which you can style this simple dress that should be a pleasure to sew. Both plain colors and prints make up beautifully, and some of the novelty weaves in rayon and silk are tremendously effective. The original of the model, which suits both misses and matrons, is created in black crêpe, with the slide fastener in emerald green. That single touch of color is all that is needed to relieve the somberness, and the combination is distinctive.

The frock has a simple V neckline, which may have a collar if you wish one. The sleeves, which are puffed at the shoulderline, may be either long or bracelet length. Buttons may be used for trimming instead of a slide fastener.

Style No. 3181 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

School Nurses Open Institute on Ways to Save Pupils' Eyes

Seventy-four public health nurses from public schools in thirty-five Illinois towns outside of Chicago met in the Palmer house yesterday to begin a four day study of ways to detect failing eyesight in children. It is the third institute on conservation of the eyesight of school children sponsored by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. This year's institute was made possible by a gift from the Chicago alumnae chapter of the Delta Gamma fraternity.

Any crossed eye will become blind through disuse without corrective measures, the nurses were told. Congenital cataract, squint, high myopia, or near-sightedness, and all cornea scars are serious eye diseases among school children, Dr. Philip Halper of Michael Reese hospital warned.

In 1929 the state's only classes for conservation of eyesight were the ten existing in Chicago schools, said Miss Audrey M. Hayden, executive secretary of the society. The state now has seventy-eight classes, with 850 pupils, forty-three of the classes being in Chicago. Classes will begin this fall in La Grange, Quincy, and Sterling.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Will you please settle a very delicate point of bidding, one involving nothing but judgment? My bridge club has split into two armed camps and I am afraid that truce can follow only on your intervention. This is the hand:

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH.
♠ A 6 5
♥ K Q 7
♦ Q 6 4 3
♣ K 9 5

WEST

♣ J 10 6

EAST

SOUTH
♠ K Q 9 7 3 2
♥ 9 4
♦ 8
♣ Q 8 4 2

"I wish to emphasize that this hand was played at match-point duplicate. If it occurred at rubber bridge I think the decision would be much easier. Both sides were vulnerable and East, the dealer, opened with the normal bid of one heart. South passed and West bid a no trump. North passed and East bid two hearts. South and West passed, and now North came in with a double. East passed. South responded with two spades and West doubled. North passed. This brings us to the burning question: What should East do? I might say that actually, after a long huddle, he passed, and that the two spade doubled contract was fulfilled and gave the opponents game.

"East and his supporters claim his pass was correct; that, despite his void spade suit, he was justified in feeling that the two spade contract should be defeated one trick, perhaps more, whereas he himself would be in great danger were he to rebid hearts or mention the four card diamond suit. West and his cohorts insist that the leave-in of the double was atrocious. They point out that West had announced by his no trump take-out that he had comparatively little honor strength and, in so far as spades were concerned, they maintained that West could not have a reasonably good spade suit, because if he had he would have responded to the heart bid with one spade instead of a no trump. They insist that East should have taken the double out to three diamonds. They admit that this might have been a dangerous move, but, according to them, it would have been a great deal less dangerous than letting the opponents play two spades doubled.

"What's the verdict?

"S. S., New York."

Well, my correspondent warned me that this was a very close point, and he certainly was right! It seems that East was pretty well trapped by circumstances. Note that North's delayed take-out double found South with not only a good spade suit but one that was six long. Had South held only a five card suit with another diamond [the most likely addition in that case] the defenders could have taken two diamonds, a heart, a spade, and two clubs for a very satisfactory score. Even with the six card suit South might have had two diamonds and three clubs. Thus, although I concede the logic of the opinions held by the West camp [that if West had had a good spade suit he would have shown it rather than bid a no trump], I must cast my vote in favor of East's decision. I freely concede that usually it is unwise to leave in the penalty double of a low contract when void of the doubled suit. But in this case East had reason to feel that any three bid by himself might be severely penalized, whereas two spades might surely be defeated.

Egotism Ruins Girl's Chance for Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Vicki is one of those self-supporting women in her early 30s who when she meets an admirer is apt to go off on a tangent about her position in his life. She has waited years for this man, she figures, and he, she thinks, should recognize her as a find out of the ordinary.

She has maintained herself through the years with dignity, with a fine reputation, with the respect of every one. She has built up for her own solace, perhaps, quite a little pedestal well inscribed with the virtues for which she is known. In other words she still believes that she is quite a catch for some man. But when along comes a man older than herself, set in his bachelos ideas of freedom and no doubt, quite a figure as a catch in his own mind—you come upon the well known fable of two immovable objects.

Vicki's is the type of romance that should come to a happy fruition with compatible interests, similar faiths, like home backgrounds. But Vicki, as we interpret her own words in her leter to us, ataches a superimportance to her virtues and sanding and she lacks the wisdom of how to go about winning her man. She admits arguing with the fellow, trying to direct his mode of living. He resents this and what started out a few months ago to be a charming relationship is nigh on the rocks today.

We sense, too, that Vicki is one of those possessive femmes who terrify men—bachelors especially. Vicki and her bachelor started out after an introduction with the bachelor the one caring most. He phoned, he dated Vicki, he pursued her with calls. Came a night when he didn't call and Vicki exploded. Came other evenings when she did not hear from him, inciting the young woman to sharp inquiries as to his doings on those evenings. In other words, Vicki spoiled the game with her highfalutin' notions of her value and her pseudo detective work on the man's comings and goings.

These older girls with years of independent steps and decisions would do better with a course in masculine psychology. They should learn what the dumbest little blonde learned in kindergarten—that you can't drive the man to the altar, but he can be "drugged" there and by the simple artifices that the dumb little one has practiced for ages.

BAUGH HURT IN REDSKINS' DRILL; ORDERED TO REST

SPRAINED FOOT THROWS SCARE INTO PRO CAMP

Last Hard Practice Set for Friday.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 22.—The efficacy of modern science prevented panic in the Washington Redskins' camp today when X-ray pictures revealed Sammy Baugh and Ed Justice, veteran half backs, had suffered no broken bones in yesterday's practice game.

Baugh was taken to the hospital along with Justice this morning when he hobbled into camp on a swollen foot. X-ray examinations revealed only a sprain and Baugh returned to camp to participate in this afternoon's drill.

Justice's ailment was diagnosed as a bruised shoulder, sustained attempting to block Wee Willie Wilkin, and he resumed practice in the afternoon.

Irwin Also a Casualty.

Other casualties yesterday were Don Irwin, full back, who suffered a wrenched knee and will be out several days, and End Charlie Malone and Half Back John Spirida, who have charley horses. None of the cripples is expected to be laid up beyond the end of the week, and all except Irwin are being counted upon to participate in Friday's scrimmage. This will be the last strenuous drill before the Redskins tackle the college All-Stars in Soldiers' field a week from Wednesday.

Baugh caused great excitement among the Redskins when he limped into the clubhouse at the start of the morning drill. There had been no previous indication that he had been hurt. Players gathered around him and before he could complete his explanation to Trainer Roy Baker Coach Ray Flaherty was leading him toward an automobile hospital bound.

When word eventually arrived from Washington across the Potomac that Sammy was on his way back to join the squad, thirty-eight husky men sent up a mighty whoop and pranced about like children. They like Sammy Baugh on this ball club, and well they might, for Sammy Baugh very nearly is the ball club.

Baugh Will Take It Easy.

Although he insisted on taking an active part in all drills, Flaherty will make Baugh take it easy for three days. He was contemplating a rest for the stringy Texan, anyway. Baugh has been active all summer playing International league baseball and has dropped down to 175 pounds. He is in superb physical condition, except for the bruised foot, but could do with a few more pounds and a little relaxation.

No better competitor is under contract in the National league. Baugh established himself as a money player first in the All-Star game last year, when he passed to Gaynell Tinsley to defeat the Green Bay Packers, and later in the New York Giant and Chicago Bear games, which meant the eastern division and world championships, respectively. The conclusive index to his standing among Redskins is found in the statement made today by Wayne Millner.

"You Catch Them for Sammy."

"You don't go down the field to catch passes for yourself when Sammy's in the game. You catch them for Sammy," Millner said. "He is one fellow you don't mind making look good—if he ever needs any help."

There was no letup in Flaherty's program today. Two long sessions occupied the squad, during which considerable time was spent perfecting the timing of plays and checking assignments missed in yesterday's game. Two intense workouts will be held tomorrow and another on Wednesday morning. On Wednesday afternoon the squad will be sent through its next to last scrimmage for the All-Star game. Flaherty promises it will be a dandy.

CHICAGO TEAM GETS ONLY FIVE HITS OFF TOBIN

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Jim Tobin, Pirate right hander, who has specialized in five hit performances this season, yesterday afternoon made the Cub outfit his seventh victim of his favorite allotment as the league leaders whipped the Chicagoans, 4 to 2. To bring the Cub total to five Tobin pitched a homer to Carl Reynolds in the ninth, Carl's No. 3 of the season.

Clay Bryant, starting Cub pitcher, in quest of his twelfth victory took his tenth defeat. Clay skated about on thin ice for six innings without getting his feet very wet. But in the seventh luck and the Pirates caught up with him. The Pittsburghers put across three runs before Clay could be extricated, and that was the ball game.

Hits Are Sparse.

Whether Tobin was very good or Cub batsmen were very bad is a matter open to discussion. Sitting in the stands, one wouldn't know.

The fact remains, however, that the first four men in the Cub batting order, the fellows who supply the power, according to the book, made a grand total of one single. Stan Hack, the leadoff man, failed to get the ball out of the infield, and so did Augie Galan, the cleanup hitter. Bill Herman, No. 2 in the batting order, got the aforesaid hit. Rip Collins, No. 3, made two long flies, either of which would have cleared the center field fence in Bisbee, Ariz., or El Paso, Tex.

Reynolds, No. 5, who should remind the Cubs that excellent players can be picked up late in the season, had a single besides his homer. Phil Cavarretta doubled and scored in the fifth and the other Cub safety was a single with which Jurges led off the seventh.

Cubs Drop Back.

The relapse after Sunday's heroics put the Cubs eight games back of the Pirates and 2½ games back of their foes of this afternoon, the Giants. The lads plunked back into fourth place, a game back of the Reds.

The Cubs were rather fortunate to hold the Pirates to one run in the first inning, considering Bryant's extreme wildness. Bryant walked Handley and L. Waner, first batsmen to face him. P. Waner flied to Reynolds but Rizzo bounced a single past Hack, Handley scoring and L. Waner stopping at second. Vaughan then forced Rizzo, Collins to Jurges. Vaughan stole second and Suhr drew Bryant's third pass, loading the bases. Young struck out.

Cubs Tie Score.

The second Cub hit bloomed into the tying run in the fifth. Cavarretta led off with a double to left, took third while Vaughan was throwing out Garbark, and scored on Jurges' long fly to P. Waner.

Bryant pitched himself out of a jam in the sixth. After Vaughan had fanned and Suhr had fouled to Garbark, Young doubled, and Todd was given an intentional pass, but Tobin also walked. Then Bryant made Handley tap to Herman.

The decisive seventh opened with L. Waner getting a single. He was forced by his brother, who sought to sacrifice. Rizzo dropped a blooper into short right, P. Waner stopping at second. Vaughan drew Bryant's seventh pass, loading the bases. Suhr singled to left center, P. Waner scoring. Young came through with his third straight hit, a single to left, which scored Rizzo and Vaughan. Jack Russell replaced Bryant and Todd slammed a low shot to Galan, who doubled Suhr off second with a throw to Herman.

Hackney of Duke Tells How Safety Man Acts Under Fire

BY HOWARD BARRY.

You've often watched your favorite football team's safety man judge a long, high punt and come under it slowly during the closing stages of a tight game. Perhaps you've spent some jittery moments dividing your attention among the ominously charging ends, the swiftly descending ball, and the prancing receiver. You've wondered meanwhile whether he'd catch it or drop it, whether he'd get clear if he caught it, whether the enemy would recover if he dropped it.

Take it from Elmore Hackney of Duke, a safety man can't afford to think of any of those things once the ball starts to spiral down from way up there in the sky. This great quarter back, who is training with the college All-Stars for the game with the Washington Redskins a week from tomorrow night in Soldiers' field, yesterday told a few things a safety man thinks about when working under pressure. And Hackney should know—for he was generally recognized as the best safety man in the south last season.

"You Never Look at Tacklers."

"Once the ball starts coming down you never look at the tacklers or even think about them," Hackney says. "If you ever take your eye off the ball the wind currents may cross you up and you'll misjudge it. Each stadium has its own currents and a safety man has to study them. You never think of fumbling, either. If you did, you'd get the jitters."

He went on to point out how a tremendous amount of yardage is gained by the correct handling of punts even when there is no runback. Hackney, however, isn't content with just catching a punt to make sure the opposition doesn't get the benefit of the roll. His specialty is returning them. Give him a split second between the catch and the tackle and he'll twist away. Once he gets into a broken field, he's one of the most spectacular runners in college football.

He Just Runs Fast.

"I haven't got much weight, so I just run fast to keep those big fellows from hitting me," is the way he puts it.

The system seems to be effective, for this quick stepping 170 pounder has given the spectators many a thrill during his career at Duke. Against North Carolina State, he returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown last season. Against the University of North Carolina, he brought one back 70 yards only to be cut down from behind just short of the goal line as he maneuvered behind the teammate who was blocking out the safety man.

His coolness under fire was brought out in the Georgia Tech game when he kicked the two points after touchdown that earned a 20 to 19 victory after he had scored one of the touchdowns himself. This was the first time

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 22.—Mike Kreevich, the little man, picked a spot for himself this afternoon, thereby spreading joy among his White Sox mates and grief among the Indians. The spot picked by the graduate coal miner was a full house, the sight of which caused him to explode an eighth inning triple off the pitching of the occasionally sensational Bob Feller. The three resulting runs gave the Chicagoans a 4 to 2 victory and the rubber decision in the five game series.

The Kreevich triple was an item richly deserved by John Henderson Whitehead, the fellow who is too bulky for his profession, but nevertheless deserving of a bit of luck. Big John had a lot of trouble today, mostly in the shape of base hits, but except for two instances, each of which put the Indians in front, he was sufficiently skilled to escape undamaged. Moreover, he didn't fool once he had gone in front. He yielded one hit—a scratch—in the last two innings.

The Fun Starts.

Going into the eighth Feller, who by abandoning the high kicking part of his delivery, had been able to hold the Sox to one run in which Jerry Walker and Rip Radcliff figured. The decisive inning opened with a single by Joe Kuhel, who after Owen had fouled out, stole second. Walker figured again by beating out an infield bounder. Radcliff popped to Lary, whereupon Feller walked Appling to load the bases. Then Kreevich blew his triple into left center for his third hit of the day and the decision was clinched.

BARBARA RANSOM WINS MEDAL IN WESTERN GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Sturdy Barbara Ransom, bespectacled daughter of a California professional, minded not the presence of one of the best fields in history as the 38th annual closed tournament of the Women's Western Golf association began yesterday over the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields.

Miss Ransom, forgetting that such famed gals as Patty Berg, Marion Miley, Beatrice Barrett, Dorothy Traung, and Mrs. Opal S. Hill had teed off ahead of her, quietly went to work and reported with a pair of 38's for a 76 and the qualifying medal. Her card was three under women's par and only one stroke over the all time medal mark of 75 set by Mrs. Hill in St. Paul last year.

Three Shots Ahead of Miss Berg.

The 24 year old Stockton, Cal. golfer's performance was so convincing that she finished three shots in front of Miss Berg, No. 1 feminine shooter of 1938. The Minneapolis star had a 42-37-79. This score left her a stroke up on a threesome of 80 scorers, including Miss Miley, the defending champion; Mrs. Hill, and Eva Shorb of Massillon, O. Miss Ransom's score

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

NOTRE DAME alumni in the east already are making plans for the silver jubilee celebration of the Army-Notre Dame football series on Oct. 29 at Yankee stadium. . . . This is the oldest continuous intersectional rivalry in the books. . . . Some idea of its popularity may be gained by the fact that all of the 81,000 tickets for the 1937 game were sold at $6.60 and $4.40 ten days after the ticket sale opened on Aug. 1. . . . When Bo McMillin sends his All-Stars against the Washington Redskins a week from tomorrow night at least three of the four previous head All-Star coaches will be in the stands. . . . They are Noble Kizer of Purdue, who handled the first squad in 1934; Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, who had charge of the 1936 All-Stars, and Charles Dorais of Detroit, who led last year's team to a victory over the Green Bay Packers. . . . Frank Thomas, All-Star coach in 1935, has watched training drills at Northwestern, but will be unable to remain for the game. . . . The average double play, by way of second baseman and shortstop, requires four and a half seconds from the time the ball leaves the bat until it lands in the first baseman's mitt. . . . Not that it makes any difference, but one Bob Swanson once played 306 holes of golf in nineteen hours over the Sunset Fields course in Los Angeles. . . . Nine members of last year's Newark club are playing in the major leagues. . . . Ball players never pick up pop bottles thrown on the field by irate fans. . . . The reason? . . . They would be subject to a $50 fine for touching one.

Jimmy Wilson.

Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies reached his greatest heights as a hitter with a bat he bought in a drug store for 98 cents. . . . After breaking it he never again touched .300. . . . Frank McCormick and Harry Craft, Cincinnati freshmen, are the only Reds who have played every inning of every game this season. . . . Don Budge was refused permission to call on the imprisoned Baron Gottfried von Cramm when he was in Germany. . . . Lou Gehrig attributes his recent improvement in hitting to the use of a lighter bat and a change of stance at the plate. . . . Turk Edwards, tackle, and Ernie Pinckert, blocking back, are the only survivors on the original Redskin roster of 1932. . . . Indiana and Texas are dickering for a football series. . . . Pat O'Connell, Grand Circuit driver, sports a set of flowing whiskers.

But does no lasting good to him at all;

It put the rollers under him for fair—

Made him forget his sharp asthmatic wheeze
Just as a dog forgets that he's a dog

FOREVER PRINCE WINS AT RECORD PRICE OF $138.40

BY FRENCH LANE.

The longest longshot of this longshot Washington Park meeting scored yesterday. Forever Prince was his name. To his few but faithful backers this 3 year old paid $138.40 to win, $47 to place, and $22.60 to show.

Of course, the odds on Forever Prince and his easy triumph by three lengths was the big noise of the afternoon. It so stimulated the crowd's imagination that it was hard to meet any one in stand or lawns who hadn't a tip on it.

A Kentucky bred colt, Forever Prince races for and is trained by R. C. Groff. It is a small racing establishment and has been on the Chicago battlefield only a short time. All the heavy wagering was on Commission and Jayfcee.

Commission Takes Lead.

Commission and Jayfcee proved to be two of the sort of horses that do not always run the way the betting indicates they will run. Commission did nobly for a time and headed into the stretch a length and a half in front.

Forever Prince had moved forward early with Commission and he moved again with him in this dash for the lead. Commission was hardly settled in his stride when Forever Prince moved to the front.

He wasn't satisfied when he got into the lead. At that stage he began to step along faster than ever. He drew out into a long lead and soon all those behind him were staggering except Detroit Bull.

This colt made up enough ground to move into second place. Jayfcee had a trifle more left than Commission. He got third money. Commission hung on to be fourth. Until Forever Prince scored honors of being the longest long shot of the Washington Park season were held by The Boxer. He paid $135.20.

Forever Prince had not won a race since May 17 at Detroit. He paid 4 to 1 that day.

Tunica Rewards Backers.

After Commission failed them the players of favorites were put back into the running by the consistent Tunica. This horse, which won the Dolton handicap, has been one of the real bread winners of the year. Last May Joe De Sopo of Louisville claimed the 3 year old at Churchill Downs for $1,000.

Tunica had to overcome some trouble to win the Dolton at a mile and seventy yards. He lost ground moving to the outside for his victorious drive in the stretch. There was no stopping him when he got ready to move. He had little trouble whipping all of those in front of him except Xenomay. Their duel carried them right up to the line of finish, but Tunica's nose was in front when it ended. In the betting he paid $6.20 for a $2 ticket. He was ridden by Jocky George South.

During the afternoon Nunzio Pariso went into a tie for first place in the race for riding honors with Ken McCombs. Pariso got five twenty-fourth winner on Detained.

WOWO, a sharp factor from the start and under steady restraint for a half mile, responded to good urging to take command and held on fairly well but could not withstand winner. Latter, away fast, sprinted into a commanding lead before reaching the turn, maintained the advantage to the final eighth, where she swerved badly while weakening under brisk punishment. POLLY HASTINGS, taken in hand when unable to outrun SUN MADRAS, responded to stout urging after reaching the stretch and was gradually drawn clear. SUN MADRAS was under energetic riding from the start but did not begin to falter until the final eighth and then gave way very slowly. GOLD MESH, raced wide, was slow to rally to pressure but responded boldly in the last eighth and finished fastest of all.

FOREVER PRINCE, well up from the start and taken out after reaching the turn, took command quickly when straight in the stretch and was kept under energetic riding while drawing away. DETERMINE (L), away slowly and receiving a strong ride, worked his way up gradually and finished resolutely. JAYFCEE was a prominent factor from the start, was nicely rated and held on stubbornly.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner trained by C. C. Norman. Went to post at 4:36½. At post ¾ minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

TUNICA, on the inside for about five-eighths, began to move up when racing between horses on the stretch turn, continued strongly after coming to the outside in the stretch and got up in the last fifty yards but could not draw away. XENOMAY followed in nearest pursuit of the early pacemaker under snug restraint, rallied when called upon in the final quarter and held on stubbornly to the end. BOMBER, on the inside for three-quarters, moved up when approaching the stretch and went gamely to the last sixteenth, where he weakened.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Claiming. Three year olds. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner trained by W. Bozanowski. Went to post at 5:02. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving; place easily.

RUSSIA, away slowly and badly outrun to the stretch, came to the outside for the final quarter and, closing with a rush, got up in the final strides but was lucky to win. RON, probably best, took command quickly, was rated along under good restraint to the stretch turn, increased his advantage when called upon and again taken in hand in the final eighth, was racing easily as his rider apparently failed to see the winner on the outside and probably would have won had he been ridden out. MISS LAMPLEY, raced very wide after reaching the last three-eighths, rallied to licht pressure in the stretch and held on well to the end.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner trained by C. E. Dale. Went to post at 5:27¼. At post ½ minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

ROCK SALLY, taken over from the outside rather sharply in the run to the first turn, opened up a good lead before going a quarter, was rated along to the stretch and, holding on well, withstood ZEVAR'S bid. The latter, well in hand for about seven-eighths, rallied when called upon and, holding on with determination, was getting to the winner. BOILING POINT went prominently from the start and weakened only slightly in the drive.

Jocky Musser Is Barred for Rough Riding

Jocky Robert Musser was suspended for the remainder of the Washington Park meeting for rough riding on the favorite Jock's Betsy in the first race yesterday. An examination after the race revealed several cuts on Jock's Betsy's heels.

So many other owners have 2 year olds that have never won a race that Frank Veloz was unable to get his colt Veyo into today's second event. He hopes to send the star of his stable out later in the week.

Quite a plunge came on Patrolite in yesterday's second race. The 4 year old filly had just arrived from California and quite a wild tip got out on her. She showed early speed then dropped out of the money.

So many horses are to be shipped to Hawthorne for the autumn meeting opening there on Labor day that work was started yesterday on a new forty-eight stall barn. Even when it is finished there will be an acute shortage of stalls. Numerous owners are seeking stables outside the track enclosure.

A big Chicago stable that is returning for the Hawthorne season is that of Mrs. Emil Denemark. Her entire stable, numbering more than thirty horses, will be shipped here from Narragansett early next week.

COACHES SHIFT BACKS TO HELP STARS' DEFENSE

20 of 32 on Roster Played Safety in College.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Although the All-Stars had been granted a day's vacation Sunday to recuperate from their strenuous activities of the previous week, the boys did entirely too much fumbling of their assignments in the offensive drills yesterday, so the coaches said. The indecision and forgetfulness was particularly irritating—as the coaches believe the players should have mastered their fundamental assignments by this time.

"We've only got about twenty plays," Bo McMillin, head coach, moaned after the workouts. "That's hardly enough, considering the ninety or a hundred plays Sammy Baugh and the Redskins will have ready for us. So far our pore little boys are all confused and now they've got us coaches confused. But if we can just confuse the Redskins a bit maybe it'll all come out right."

Then There's Wilkin.

All of this might be anticipated in any football camp and discounted accordingly, just as it would be discounted in any football camp. Some of the players may have been reading about Washington's Wee Willie Wilkin, the giant tackle, whose strength is that of a Bunyan and whose sense of direction that of a Corrigan. Wee Willie may be quite a player. He must be to toss Big Turk Edwards around, but the All-Stars know that he probably can't tell one goal line from the other any more than he knows north from south or which bus line runs where.

No matter what you may hear, these All-Stars in Evanston know their directions. And if two drills each day are sufficient, they will have memorized their blocking assignments by a week from tomorrow night. The All-Americans drilled twice yesterday. They will work twice today, and tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting, they will have their next to last scrimmage under game conditions.

You Can't Overlook Heap.

The rain Saturday cut short the scrimmage on Dyche stadium gridiron, but before time was called Don Heap of Northwestern had shown that he must be considered for the left half back position. Cecil Isbell of Purdue, Jack Robbins of Arkansas, and Whizzer White of Colorado, whose forward passing yesterday was the best the All-Stars have had so far in their workouts, already have been mentioned frequently.

One of the coaches' regrets is that of the thirty-two back field men listed on the squad, twenty played the safety position on defense during their collegiate careers. It has been difficult to arrange the secondary defense by assigning men to back up the line. If a man is taken from his normal defensive position it weakens the secondary.

MR. HACKNEY OF DUKE DISCUSSES THE SAFETY MAN

Duke ever had beaten Georgia Tech on its home field.

Hackney's great speed also has come in handy in forward pass defense. For instance, he intercepted a pass almost on the goal line in the closing seconds of the East-West All-Star game on the Pacific coast last New Year's day, thereby leaving the score 0 to 0.

This knack of cutting down enemy passes is mighty interesting to the All-Star coaches for they want somebody with Hackney's ability in there when Sammy Baugh starts throwing for the Redskins.

During Hackney's career in high school, freshman and varsity football he has been on the losing side in only five games. When he played with the Durham High school team, they went through three seasons undefeated.

Hackney's home is in Durham. He's going back to Duke to help coach this fall and then plans to start a business career with one of the tobacco companies which operate in North Carolina.

The All-Star-Redskin game Aug. 31 will be in the nature of a football comeback for Andy Uram, Minnesota half back. Andy's football career was cut short in the third game of the season with Michigan last year when his left wrist was broken. So brilliant was his performance up to that time, however, that the fans of the nation elected him to a starting position in the All-Star lineup.

Andy's loyalty to Minnesota comes about naturally. He grew up within the shadows of the Gopher stadium and even before his high school days he was an unofficial handyman around the Gopher training quarters. He realized a boyhood ambition by making the Minnesota varsity in his sophomore year.

If Milt Popovich, the Butte Bullet, maintains the record he made at Montana, the Washington Redskins will be plenty harassed the 31st. Since Milt ran seventy-nine yards against the University of Southern California in his first varsity game, he has made at least one long run in every game he has played. He was nominated as the outstanding player in the Shrine East-West game last New Year's day.

A few hobbies of All-Star players: Bob Swisher, Northwestern, collecting pipes; Stan Mondala, Missouri, drawing; Cecil Isbell, Purdue, bridge; Vic Markov, Washington, fishing; Mike Calvano, Northwestern, bowling; Andy Farkas, Detroit, collecting books; Hugh Wolfe, Texas, collecting rocks; Al Barbartsky, Fordham, hiking; Frank Filchock, Indiana, drawing cartoons; John Meek, California, collecting wild flowers; Jack White, Princeton, reading; Joe Routt, Texas Aggies, boxing; Perry Schwartz, California, music; Chuck Sweeney, Notre Dame, collecting stamps.

CELEBRON WINS OVER ZALE IN TEN ROUND BOUT

Billy Celebron, Rockford middleweight, rallied to win a decision in ten rounds over Tony Zale of Gary, in Marigold Gardens last night. It was their second encounter in five weeks, the previous meeting ending in a draw. It was Celebron's ninth victory in ten starts this year.

Frankie Kalnrath, Catholic Youth organization bantamweight, achieved his second professional victory by beating Lou Laurie, former American Olympic Golden Gloves representative, in four rounds.

Jimmy Sheppard, Peoria, 158 pounder, knocked Billy Sal of Milwaukee in the third round, and George Markos, La Crosse, Wis., 135 pounder, stopped George Kotrodimus of Milwaukee, also in the third.

Vander Meer Has Relapse; May Be Idle for Weeks

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds pitcher, suffered a recurrence of an ear infection today and reported he was in intense pain. After a visit to his physician today, it was indicated that it might be several weeks before he would take his place on the mound again. He will be placed under a physician's care when he returns with the team to Cincinnati tomorrow.

DIANA FISHWICK TO MARRY GOLF PARTNER TODAY

Miss Fishwick won the British women's title eight years ago when she defeated Glenna Collett of America in the finals. Known to American golf galleries, Gen. Critchley is one of England's leading industrialists and is known as the greyhound czar, having backed and popularized dog racing in this country. He and Miss Fishwick have won many mixed foursome tournaments in England and on the continent.

the manager, who had to play second because no other infielders were available, can't be overlooked. Mr. Dykes had to handle ten chances at second base, evenly divided between putouts and assists. He started one double play, when Whitehead needed help and was in the middle of another. As a hitter, the manager didn't have much fun. He fanned twice with a man on base, once grounded to third base, and flied out after Kreevich had wrecked the Indians in the eighth.

Whitehead yielded two hits in the second and was saved by a double play, but he was hit for another pair in the third and this time a run resulted. Umpire Hubbard, who seems to have developed a dislike for the Sox, was given an assist. Feller beat out a slow roller because of Whitehead's inability to get around, and was forced by Lary. On Campbell's fly to Radcliff Lary went to second and apparently overslid the bag as Dykes tagged him, but was called safe. He scored on a double by Hemsley. Owen threw out Heath.

Sox Tie the Score.

The pickings for the Sox were so lean in the fourth and fifth that they couldn't even get a man to base but two of them arrived there in the sixth and this led to the tying run. Feller started the inning stylishly by fanning Kuhel and Owen. Walker broke up the strike sequence by singling and going to second on a wild pitch. Radcliff bounced a double off the right field wall and Walker scored. Appling exploded a liner toward right but Trosky leaped up and caught it.

Whitehead didn't seem to enjoy the idea of being in a tie so loosened up in the home sixth and the Indians went in front by a 2 to 1 score. It could have been worse. Hemsley led off with a two bagger to left and took third on Heath's fly to Radcliff. Whitehead got excited about Averill, who had made two hits, and so walked him. Trosky clubbed a single into center, Hemsley scoring and Averill going to third. Owen then made a great stop of Keltner's grounder and started a double play in which Dykes was the middleman.

White Sox and Yanks Meet in Double-Header

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 22.—The White Sox departed this evening for New York, not at all enthusiastic about the program immediately ahead. Tomorrow they play the first of six successive double-headers, two with the champion Yankees. Thornton Lee and John Rigney will face the titleholders in the opening pair.

The gash inflicted above Boze Berger's right knee by Hal Trosky's spikes in a play at second base yesterday required six stitches. Berger will not be able to play for about ten days, so he was shipped to Chicago tonight, making the sixth absentee. The others are Hayes, Sewell, Rosenthal, Brown and Dietrich.

Reds Collect 18 Hits; Beat Cards, 11 to 4

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds broke loose with an 18-hit attack today against four St. Louis Cardinal pitchers to give Paul Derringer his 17th victory of the season, 11 to 4.

The Reds collected five runs in the fourth, the inning after Manager Bill McKechnie was banished by Umpire George Barr for protesting Derringer's being called out at the plate, and gathered six more in the next three innings.

MRS. MOODY MAY NOT PLAY IN U. S. SINGLES TOURNEY

New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Entries for the national singles tennis tournament at Forest Hills on Sept. 8-17 closed today and Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's name was not on the list.

Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association could not explain why the Wimbledon champion had not sent in her entry blank. On her return from Europe Mrs. Moody said she intended to compete in both the national singles and doubles, but she did not enter this week's doubles tournament at Brookline, Mass. The officials finally decided to extend the deadline until midnight tomorrow.

Mrs. Moody left the whole matter in doubt when she explained she had been busy writing a magazine article and "hadn't bothered" to file her entry. "I don't know whether I will, either," she added.

Budge-Mako Lead Advance in U. S. Meet

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 22.—(AP)—One of the largest foreign delegations in the 57 years of national doubles tennis competition was cut in half during today's opening play, which saw the future Davis cup rivals, Don Budge and Gene Mako of the United States, and Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich of Australia, advance with one-sided victories.

Ten of the 32 pairs entered were foreign teams and half of them were eliminated during the first round play, two by default.

Henkel-Von Metaxa Withdraw.

Henner Henkel, who won last year with Baron Gottfried von Cramm, and his new German Davis cup teammate, Georg von Metaxa, were ordered to withdraw by their home tennis association.

Other foreign teams to drop out were Tamio Abe and Fumitera Nakano, Japan, who were beaten, 6-3, 6-4, 10-12, 6-4, by Bobby Riggs, Chicago, and Bryan Grant, Atlanta; the Japanese-Australian combination of Yasumine Kuramitsu and Mervyn Weston, which was eliminated, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, by Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, Austin, Tex., and England's Eric J. Filby and Roland A. Shayes, who fell before Gardner Mulloy, Miami, and George Foley, Los Angeles, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

Bromwich-Quist Play Well.

Upholding their top seedings on the domestic and foreign lists, respectively, Budge and Mako swept through Marvin Wachman, Milwaukee, and Norbert Burgess, Chicago, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, while Quist and Bromwich were impressive in overwhelming the California pair of Morimer Ballagh and Verne Hughes, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Eight matches were played in the women's division, with no upsets to mark the passage into the second round. Top seeded Alice Marble and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, defending champions, and Nancy Wynne and Thelma Coyne, who top the foreign list, drew byes. Four other favored teams—Kay Stammers-Margot Lumb, Mme. Rene Mathieu-Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, Dorothy Bundy-Dorothy Workman, and Barbara Winslow-Marilynn McRae—won without much trouble.

Three Records Are Broken in Title Trapshoot

Vandalia, O., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Three records were broken today as the thirty-ninth annual grand American trapshoot program opened.

Five championships, one captured by a 13 year old schoolboy from Missouri and another by a 67 year old plumbing and heating contractor from Florida, were decided.

Professional registered two of the records, both world affairs, but Ohio's amateur, Joe Hiestand from Hillsboro, was the headliner. Joe, shorn of seven national titles a year ago, came back by cracking 200 in a row today, running his unbroken string for the last three days to 500. The 500 straight set a new record for the fixture.

Fred Tomlin, professional from Glassboro, N. J., cracked the first twelve today to run his string to 714, the longest run in trapshooting history. He had carried over a run of 702 from several eastern registered meets.

The other record was a squad event. Five professionals turned in a combined total of 993 of 1,000 to better the previous mark of 991. The amateur mark is 900. The world-champion squad, with the scores: Capt. J. B. Grier, Rockland, Del., 200; Karl Maust, Columbus, O., 199; Joe Davison, Kansas City, Mo., 199; F. H. Woodcock, Ithaca, N. Y., 199; Homer Clark, Alton, Ill., 196.

Rudy Etchen, 15 year old youth from Wichita, Kas., the youngest boy ever to win a state championship, surrendered his sub-junior championship because he had outgrown it, but stepped up to the junior class to win with 98 of 100. Shortly after winning, Etchen collapsed on the traps as the result of an attack of ptomaine poisoning. He took a nap of several hours and then came back for the state champion race, but missed three in a row after breaking the first 20. Ray Fienup, 13, of St. Louis, took over Etchen's sub-junior laurels with a score of 98 of 100.

The senior title, for shooters over 65, went to 67 year old E. E. Bush, plumbing and heating contractor from Tallahassee, Fla., who cracked 192 of 200.

ASTERISK WINS OPENING RACE OF STAR SERIES

Asterisk's elapsed time was 2 hours 35 minutes and 3 seconds. Sanderling, sailed by Phil Upton and representing the St. Joseph-Paw Paw Lake, Mich., fleet, was runnerup. Shimmer, Leeds Mitchell Jr.'s Chicago Yacht club entry, was third.

The afternoon race, open to all local and visiting stars, was won by Harry Nye Jr.'s Gale. His time for the seven miles was 1:99.22. Maybe, owned by Fritz Bloom and sailed by Ralph Bradley, was second. It carried the Peoria, Ill., Star fleet flag.

Both the Great Lakes and the open series will be continued today.

Giants to Open Series Today Against Cubs

The Cubs and Giants will open a two game series in Wrigley field this afternoon. Vance Page probably will pitch for the Cubs and Harry Gumbert for the New Yorkers.

The boys in the counting room were so pleased with the 40,402 attendance at Sunday's double-header that they prevailed upon the management to arrange a bargain for next Sunday. Accordingly, the Cub-Philly game scheduled for Monday, Aug. 29, will be played as part of a double-header Sunday.

The Pirates and Cubs played to 74,927 in the series, which closed with the good Monday total of 13,738.

IT SEEMS BATS WANT NO PART OF HUMAN HAIR

Becker Tells Experiences with Mammals.

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago, Ill.

I hope you can help me out of my predicament. It may sound amusing to you, but I can assure you that it is not amusing to me. I work in a building on Michigan avenue. Lately we've had quite a few bats in the office. They have scared us to death. I have heard that bats are blind in the day and will light on you or fly in your hair. Is this true? Also please tell me how soon they will hibernate, if that is what they do in the fall. Thank you for this information.

Miss M. P.

We have had a number of letters this summer from residents of both Wisconsin and Illinois who have been having trouble with bats in their homes, in summer log cabins, and other places. But so far we never have heard of any of these mammals flying into anybody's hair. Bats want nothing to do with the human race. They'll keep away from people if they can.

This Should Settle It.

We have collected many bats in South American caves, chapels and churches in Brazil, log cabins in the west, and in other locations. Many times while in Brazil we were awakened by them in our room and netted them by candlelight. Not once did a bat strike us on the head or elsewhere and there were times when we had no light in the room in order to see how accurately they could fly in the dark. We have repeated this experience in dark caves with hundreds of bats flying around us.

There are quite a few species of bats here in Illinois. Some migrate southward in the fall, but there are others that hibernate during the cold weather. Caves are used by some species which become dormant during the winter. The little brown bat, for example, is a natural cave dweller and is often found in such places during the winter.

A Question for Warden.

Chicago, Ill.

Just recently our club sold a part of forty acres of duck hunting land we own near Sparland, Ill. In it is a water hole. The party who purchased the west part of our land intends to put live ducks in the hole [as decoys] and also intends to feed ducks. The question we would like you to answer is this: Can our club shoot ducks on our part of the land which would be about 350 feet from the place where the live decoys will be? We are not going to put out live birds. But will we be within the law in shooting where we want to?

Adolph J. F.

We'd like to pass this question. We suggest that you contact Federal Warden John Martin at Peoria, Ill., and put the problem up to him. He'll be glad to call at your club [if necessary] and go over the question with you.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

WHEAT FUTURES FAIL TO HOLD GAINS; CLOSE OFF

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Corn	.52¼	.52¼	.96⅜
Oats	.23½	.23½	.29
Rye	.41¼	.41⅞	.75½
*Soy beans	.77⅜	.78½	.96

*October.

North American wheat markets declined yesterday. A small upturn in futures early was in sympathy with Liverpool. The buying movement was short lived and prices declined about 1 cent a bushel from the high point. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Corn futures were unchanged on the September delivery and ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower on the deferred months.

Lack of export demand, easiness in securities, and receipts of 3,272,000 bushels of cash wheat at the primary markets were the bearish influences. About two-thirds of the receipts represented arrivals at northwestern points.

Grain Placed in Storage.

Reports indicated a large part of the grain was being placed in storage for farmer accounts, presumably for securing government loans. No. 1 dark northern spring wheat in the Minneapolis market closed at 71⅞ to 75⅞ cents, compared with a loan price of 81 cents a bushel on this grade.

Reports Russian offers of cash wheat had been withdrawn caused relative firmness in the Liverpool market. Futures there closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent a bushel higher. Winnipeg was unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

Corn Trade Light.

Trading in corn futures was light. Favorable crop comments had a depressing effect on the deferred futures. Commission house buying caused a sharp rally in the September delivery late in the session. Country offerings for deferred shipment were light. No export sales were reported.

Oats showed independent strength, and closed unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher, the latter on December. Cash interests were fair sellers at times, but this was offset by buying attributed to the northwest. Rye futures closed ½ to ⅝ cent lower. Soy beans were ⅜ to ¾ cent a bushel lower.

Industrial Rayon.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information on the Industrial Rayon common stock.—H. B.

Answer: The Industrial Rayon corporation manufactures rayon under the viscose process. The company stated in its 1935 report that it was developing a new process which would make possible in a single operation the spinning, chemical treating, and finishing of a rayon yarn of superior quality. Rayon Machinery corporation was formed as a wholly-owned subsidiary to manufacture the new machinery needed and to develop and protect through patents the new process.

About 20 per cent of the company's products is sold to weavers and 16 per cent to converters and jobbers for use in the weaving trades. The rest of its output is knitting yarn.

Industrial Rayon corporation was incorporated in 1925 under Delaware laws to acquire common stock of the Industrial Fibre Corporation of America.

Earnings in 1937 were sharply reduced by a strike, which tied up plants during most of the second quarter, and by the business depression, which continued to impede its operations this year. The company had a net loss in the second quarter this year of $1,511 and net loss for the first six months this year of $120,450, against profit of $181,371 in the first half of 1937. President Rivitz stated on Aug. 10, however, that the company operated at a profit in July.

Net income for all of 1937 was $262,210, or 35 cents a share, against $1,361,460, or $2.24 a share in 1936. Profits were $608,012 in 1935; $1,340,121 in 1934; $1,806,792 in 1933, and $237,251 in 1932.

Capital stock consists of 759,325 shares of no par value. The company in July issued $7,500,000 of an authorized $15,000,000 issue of 4½ per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds, due July 1, 1948. This is its only funded debt. Proceeds were to be used to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures in recent years and to provide for further expansion of plant facilities.

Zenith High and Low.

Investors' Guide: I would like to know what has been the high and low for the last three years on Zenith Radio stock.—P. F. B.

Answer: The stock ranged between 1⅛ and 14¾ in 1935; 11⅛ and 42¾ in 1936; 11⅞ and 43¾ in 1937, and has ranged between 9 and 25¾ thus far in 1938.

HOG SLAUGHTER FIVE YEARS AGO PROVES COSTLY

Swine Growers Get Less than Before.

Today is the fifth anniversary of the killing of the first of the millions of pigs and sows under the federal administration's crop reduction program. Crop planners are looking back with some confusion over the years of "progress."

In summarizing the results of the last five years of managed production, here is what planners find:

Sales of American pork products abroad were the lowest in history, but imports from other countries reached the greatest volume on record.

Middle West Hurt Most.

Production records of the government show that corn belt farmers were hurt by the pig killing and its results far more than farmers in the south, because the latter reduced their output very little. Some southern states actually increased hog production.

Other information in official records of the department of agriculture shows that packing houses, stock yard companies, railroads, and truck lines, and other industries associated with hog production have been operating far below normal, throwing many thousands of workers on relief. This situation has been the direct result of the pig killing and the control measures, as well as the two years of drouth that followed the destruction.

Value of Hogs Declines.

The cash value of all hogs produced during the four years, 1934-'37, inclusive, dropped 12 per cent below the aggregate value for the four years preceding the killing of the pigs, the department's files disclose. The four year value was placed at $3,875,689,000, including stock that farmers slaughtered for home use as well as all hogs sold for cash. This compared with $4,416,275,000 in the four years preceding the pig destruction. Payments to farmers during the last four years were below those for any other four year period since before the world war.

Under federal control measures drastic price fluctuations so costly to hog raisers were to be cut down, according to the original "plan." Fluctuations during the last five years have been approximately 10 per cent greater than during the five years before government "help" arrived.

Sharp Decline This Year.

As recently as this year one of the sharpest downturns on record occurred. The break of $5.70 per 100 pounds for hogs from the high point of $13.75 last year to the low mark of $8.65 this year, was one of the sharpest in history. In fact, only three periods on record show as large a decline for one year.

It is estimated that approximately 2,000,000 fewer people in other countries are eating American pork than prior to 1933, and there are more than 34,000,000 fewer customers in Europe for American lard. At the same time pork imports to this country are equivalent to what about 1,000,000 people eat. Prior to 1933 pork imports to the United States were almost negligible compared to exports. At times since then imports have exceeded exports, a situation never before known in this country.

Imports of Pork Soar.

During the four and one half years ended June 30, 1938, this country imported 157,111,680 pounds of foreign pork, an increase of 537 per cent over the 24,656,000 pounds that came in during the four and one-half years ended June 30, 1933. Live hog imports for the same period increased from 250,000 pounds to 36,451,611 pounds, a rise of 3,736 per cent.

Pork exports dropped from 959,832,000 pounds before the pigs were killed to 437,134,323 during the last four and one-half years ended June 30, 1938, off 54 per cent. Lard exports, the files show, declined 69 per cent, from a total of 2,943,361,000 pounds to 887,188,137. Last year set a new high for imports and a new low for exports.

Chicago Plants Less Active.

As a result of the decline in hog production since 1933 the Chicago stockyards, the chief packing center in the world, are working less than 40 per cent of capacity, with half of the facilities for the handling of hogs on the market closed down. During the first seven months of 1938 Chicago received only 2,371,910 hogs, compared with 4,026,089 during the seven months of 1933, and a ten year average of 4,929,977 prior to 1933.

Railroads and truck lines that have always found transporting swine to market and to packing plants an important part of their income, have had hog hauls cut 57 per cent and 32 per cent, respectively.

Security offerings aggregating $66,142,500 are scheduled to be placed on the market this week. They include $33,000,000 of Commonwealth Edison first mortgage bonds, which are to be marketed at the same time that about $39,000,000 of convertible debentures are to be offered to stockholders; $20,000,000 of Lone Star Gas company 3½ per cent debentures, $10,000,000 of Crucible Steel company 4½ per cent debentures, and $3,000,000 of Scott Paper company preferred stock.

The Commonwealth Edison's offering of 3½ per cent bonds is scheduled to be made on Thursday by a nationwide banking group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. It will duplicate an offering made early this summer.

Another Step in Program.

The Edison financing is another step in the company's financing plan to simplify its corporate structure and to reduce interest charges.

The Lone Star Gas offering is tentatively scheduled for Thursday. It is to be offered by an underwriting group headed by the Mellon Securities corporation.

The Crucible Steel debentures are scheduled to be offered tomorrow by a group headed by Hallgarten & Co. Proceeds will be used to redeem $4,500,000 of 5 per cent bonds; $2,000,000 to fund bank loans, and the balance for working capital.

Utility Plans Bond Issue.

The Gulf State Utilities company's proposed offering of $10,000,000 of 4 per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds came a step nearer the market yesterday when the company filed an amendment to its registration with the Securities and Exchange commission giving additional details. The issue is to run thirty years and be redeemable at 106 during the first three years and at diminishing premiums thereafter. The approximate date of the offering is Aug. 31.

The Carrier corporation, one of the nation's largest manufacturers of air conditioning equipment, has called a special stockholders' meeting for Sept. 12 to consider a financing program which will include issuance of $2,500,000 of ten year convertible debentures. Proceeds would be used to retire $1,500,000 of bank loans and to supply additional working capital.

DOLLAR DECLINES AGAINST FRENCH, BRITISH MONEY

American money declined slightly in terms of most European currencies yesterday in the New York foreign exchange market. The British pound closed 1-16 of a cent higher at $4.88½. French francs were 0.00⅛ of a cent higher at 2.73¾ cents, and The Netherlands guilder 0.03 of a cent higher at 54.71 cents.

A favorable reception was given in the foreign exchange market to Premier Daladier's statement that the 40 hour week must be abandoned in France if the nation is to keep pace in the European armament race. In addition to the gain in francs for immediate payment, the discount on 90 day forward francs narrowed to 0.06½ of a cent from 0.07½ of a cent Saturday.

Engagement of $385,000 of gold in England for shipment to the United States was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Recent engagement not reported before of $2,094,000 of gold in Belgium and $1,764,000 of gold in England also were announced.

WISCONSIN WILL ASK U. S. TO BUY SURPLUS CHEESE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 22.—As the result of a conference late today between officials of the state department of markets and a member of Gov. La Follette's staf, the governor tomorrow will wire an urgent request to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation to remove part of Wisconsin's huge cheese surplus.

The department of markets, through Director Ralph E. Ammon, recently asked the FSCC to aid in alleviating glutted market conditions in all types of cheese made in this state by purchasing part of the surplus for relief purposes. The new request, it was learned tonight, was made because of the prospect of a further drop in prices.

CAMPBELL SOUP CO. TO PENSION WORKERS AT AGE OF 65 YEARS

Camden, N. J., Aug. 21.—(AP)—The Campbell Soup company announced today a retirement and pension fund for all its full time employés at the age of 65.

The company will bear the entire expense of the pensions for the lower salary bracketed employés. The company and its employés will contribute to the fund for those earning more than $250 monthly.

Under the plan, Dorrance said, the rate of retirement income will be one per cent of the employé's average annual rate of earnings during the five years ended Dec 31, 1937, multiplied by the number of full years of service.

The plan applies to all employés in the Camden, Chicago, and New Oronto, Ont., plants, and to all other employés of the company and its subsidiaries, Dorrance announced.

Cotton Raisers Get 127 Million 'Adjustment'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Cotton price adjustment payments averaging about 2.89 cents a pound will begin next month, the Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today. The money, totaling about $127,000,000, goes to farmers who planted within their 1938 acreage allotments. About 1,400,000 applications covering 14,648,000 bales will be handled. Administration expenses are estimated at $3,000,000.

Cotton price adjustment payments, under the law, are applicable to the base production of all farms on which cotton was grown in 1937. It is provided, however, that no payments are to be made if the producer or producers knowingly overplanted the 1938 cotton acreage allotments.

Base Production Calculated.

The maximum amount of 1937 cotton on which a farmer may receive payment is 60 per cent of the base production. In case the amount produced in 1937 was less than 60 per cent of the farm's base production, payment will not be made on more than the amount actually produced except where failure to produce 60 per cent was due to crop failures from specified causes.

The 1937 base production of a farm was the adjusted normal production of its base acreage. The base acreage represents the normal devoted to cotton. This was adjusted to bring the base acreage of all farms within state and county allotments.

Maximum 3 Cents.

Under the legislation as originally passed, the rate of payment on eligible cotton was established as the amount by which the average price of ⅞ inch middling cotton on the ten designated spot markets was below 12 cents per pound on the date of the sale of the cotton by the producer. The rate was not to exceed 3 cents per pound in any case.

An amendment later provided that the maximum rate of 3 cents a pound would apply to eligible cotton produced in 1937 and not sold by the producer prior to Sept. 10, 1937. It was on that date that the spot market average fell below 9 cents during the 1937-1938 marketing season.

The payment rate for those who sold 1937 cotton before last Sept. 10 will be the amount by which the spot market average was below 12 cents on the date of sale, and not to exceed 3 cents.

A SHORT TIME AGO, a New York investment firm wrote to The Times to say that an advertisement published in the financial news pages resulted in the sale—to a new customer—of a substantial block of bonds without benefit either of a salesman contact or of circularization. In addition, many inquiries were received both from within and outside the State.

The testimony of satisfied and convinced advertisers gives evidence of The Times recognized leadership as the NEWSpaper reaching the largest audience of investors.

LOCKHEED EARNS LESS DESPITE RISE IN SALES

Union Tank Car Net Earnings Fall.

Lockheed Aircraft corporation's profit in the first half of this year declined to 23 cents a common share, the company's semi-annual report by Robert E. Gross, president-treasurer, showed yesterday. This compared with 43 cents a share earned in the first six months of 1937. The drop occurred despite an increase of 92 per cent in sales.

Three Chicago companies also showed poorer interim earnings results for this year than for 1937. These were Union Tank Car company, The Fair department store, and Chicago Pneumatic Tool company.

Higher profits than in corresponding 1937 periods were shown by two companies in the food business. These were the Pet Milk company, and Mead, Johnson & Co., maker of infant diet products. Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, had a June quarter loss against a substantial profit in the June, 1937, quarter.

Plane Sales Set Record.

Lockheed's sales in the first half increased to $5,111,690, a new six months' peak, compared with $2,644,991 in the 1937 period. Net income, however, slipped to $151,074, against $281,562 in the first six months of last year. Backlog of unfilled orders on June 30 was at an all time high of $23,522,000, compared with $3,137,374 on June 30, 1937.

Most of the backlog, Gross said, represented orders for the Lockheed "14," the company's largest and most recent model, and the model used by Howard Hughes in his globe circling flight.

"In the first quarter," Gross reported to stockholders, "the extent of the tooling and arranging necessary to achieve high production on this model [the "14"], together with certain unexpected delays, was such that January, February, and March were unprofitable, gains being realized only in the second quarter. While the amount of time and tooling involved was substantial, it has created a foundation for relatively high production and, as subsequent events have proven, an advantage in negotiating for large orders."

Large British Order.

Gross called attention to an order for 200 "reconnaisance bombers" received by the company in June from the British government. He said that some interruption in production of planes may result late this year from the engineering, tooling, and rearranging needed to prepare for delivery of the British bombers. Production of these in large numbers will not begin until early in 1939. The rearrangements will be made in order to make possible production and timely deliveries of commercial models, while military output is in full stride.

Union Tank Car's profit in the first half year declined to $509,504, compared with $975,206 in the first half of 1937. Depreciation charges were reduced to $1,443,404, compared with $1,585,816. Taxes increased slightly [other than federal income and excess profits taxes] to $153,317 from $145,977 in the 1937 first half.

I. R. T. Loss Is Larger.

The report of the Interborough Rapid Transit company for the fiscal year ended on June 30, 1938, released by Thomas E. Murray Jr., receiver, shows a consolidated deficit of $11,600,470 for the year. This compares with a deficit of $7,546,833 in the fiscal year to June 30, 1937.

Gross operating revenues of the I. R. T. system, including the Manhattan railway division, for the year aggregated $52,711,967, against $54,799,020 in the preceding fiscal year. Operating expenses amounted to $37,993,907, compared with $35,713,278 in the year to June 30, 1937, an increase of $2,230,629.

Passengers carried during the twelve months on both the subway and the elevated divisions totaled 964,226,011, a drop of 46,747,813 from the total passenger trafic of 1,010,973,824

Steel Makers Lose $1.75 Per Ton Produced

Operation of the nation's steel industry in the first half of 1938 resulted in a loss of $1.75 on every ton of steel products shipped to consumers. This statement was made yesterday by the American Iron and Steel institute. Its estimate of the loss was based on reports from companies producing more than 90 per cent of the nation's steel. At the same time the institute estimated that steel output will increase this week.

The loss of $1.75 a ton contrasts with a profit of $5.70 a ton before dividends for the same companies in the first half of 1937. Production for the 1937 period was the third largest in the history of the industry.

Average Profit Is $2.10.

Since 1933, when the institute began to collect earnings data, the average profit has been $2.10 a ton before dividends.

The total loss piled up by the steel companies in the six months of this year was $18,400,000, the institute said. The loss was approximately 50 per cent larger than the total losses for all of 1934, the last preceding year in which the industry operated at a loss.

The losses for the first half of this year represented a loss of about 0.1 per cent on the investment. This compared with a return of 6.2 per cent on the investment last year. The average return for the 1933-'38 period has been 2.2 per cent.

Pay Rolls $40 Millions.

Total pay rolls of the reporting companies for the first half of 1938 were $340,702,000. This includes pay rolls of certain subsidiary companies which do not produce iron or steel. About 504,000 employés share the wages.

During the six month period dividends totaling $25,562,000 were paid to nearly 500,000 stockholders of the companies. These payments represented 7½ cents for each dollar of pay rolls. Dividends in 1937 represented 13½ cents per dollar of pay rolls.

Taxes paid—federal, state, and local—totaled nearly $46,000,000. This was a sum equivalent to a full month's pay for 327,000 employés. Taxes per ton of products shipped during the first half of this year were 18 per cent above 1937, amounting to $4.90 against $4.15 a ton last year.

Larger Output Predicted.

The institute yesterday estimated that steel mills in the United States will operate at 42.8 per cent of capacity this week. Up 2.4 points over last week's schedule of 40.4 per cent of capacity, the ingot production rate is the highest since the week of Nov. 1, 1937, the institute said.

Aiding the upturn are production boosts at Buffalo, N. Y., and Birmingham, Ala. Ingot output at Buffalo reached 46.5 per cent of capacity yesterday, up 5.5 points from the start of last week and 2.5 points from last Saturday.

Subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation have received orders for 16,750 tons of structural steel to be used for the Delaware aqueduct project.

GIVE 13 MILLION MORE FOR RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Rural Electrification administration allotted $13,175,600 today for construction of power lines, wiring of houses, and installation of plumbing in twenty-six states.

The administration said the money would be used to construct 12,118 miles of lines which would make electric service available to more than 40,000 farm families.

The allotments brought total REA financing to more than $122,000,000.

INLAND STEEL ATTACKS LABOR BOARD'S ORDER

Declares Union Rule Is Illegal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—The proposed order of the National Labor Relations board requiring the Inland Steel corporation to sign a written contract with the Steel Workers' Organizing committee was assailed by company lawyers today. They asserted the order was an unconstitutional usurpation of power.

Ernest S. Ballard denies law is violated.

The labor board heard oral arguments in the Inland Steel case, the first in which it undertook to force an employer to sign a written contract. The company concededly bargained collectively with the S. W. O. C., in compliance with the Wagner labor relations act, but the board held that its refusal to sign an agreement was a violation.

Cause of Steel Strike.

It was the refusal of Inland Steel, as well as Republic, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, to sign agreements with the C. I. O. union which brought about the violent "little steel" strike last year.

The proposed order of the labor board also requires Inland Steel to disestablish an unaffiliated union of its workers, the Steel Workers' Independent union. Morris E. Crites, attorney for this union, denied that it was a company dominated organization and urged the board not to order its dissolution.

Anthony Wayne Smith, a C. I. O. attorney, defended the labor board's proposed order. He accused the four little steel companies of "conspiring to undercut the United States Steel corporation and to destroy the labor organization in steel."

The C. I. O. lawyer said the evidence clearly supported the board's finding that Inland officials favored the unaffiliated union and opposed the S. W. O. C.

Denies Act Is Violated.

Ernest S. Ballard, who made the principal argument for Inland, denied that the company violated the Wagner act before, during, or after the 1937 strike.

"We respectfully submit that the respondent [Inland] performed its full duty under the statute in bargaining to an impasse on the question of signing," said the company's brief. "The order of the board . . . is an attempt to deprive respondent of its inherent and inalienable right to make a contract with its labor that it wished. It is not a requirement to bargain; it is a usurpation of respondent's right to bargain, the compulsory imposition of a particular bargain upon respondent."

During the board hearings before Trial Examiner Charles A. Wood at Chicago, from June 28 to Oct. 13, 1937, the company put nearly 700 employés on the stand in support of its contention that the C. I. O. union did not represent a majority of the workers and had no right to speak for them.

Sell Without Fear or Bias

If Jones & Co. default for $10,000, is that a good reason for refusing credit to Smith & Sons? It is human nature to "clamp down hard" after a severe credit loss, but is it wise—is it necessary?

American Credit Insurance

puts credit extension on a sound basis for Manufacturers and Jobbers. Policyholders know that they will be reimbursed when debtors default on goods shipped under the terms of the policy. There's no "hangover" of fear—there's more punch in selling—there's greater freedom in credit granting.

An "American" policyholder (name on request) writes: "Without credit insurance, we would feel unwilling to give proper credits to deserving accounts. Credit insurance has proven its worth by removing us from all anxiety."

"American" offers coverage on all accounts, special groups, sales by branches and subsidiaries, etc. Protects you on "77-B" reorganizations on the same basis as insolvencies. Liquidates delinquencies. Get full details. Offices in all principal cities.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 22.—The stock market closed irregularly lower today. It was one of the dullest trading sessions in summer, with 396,620 shares changing hands. Only 607 issues were traded. Of these 147 advanced, 277 declined, and 174 were unchanged. The market drifted lower during the morning, steadied about noon, and then turned modestly upward. At the close few issues were more than fractionally changed from Saturday's prices.

Motors were among the weak spots in the morning. One reason given for this was a realization that auto reports will be poor for the third quarter because of the shutdowns for model changes and reduction of car stocks by dealers. Before the close, however, both General Motors and Chrysler had cut losses from 1½ and 1¼ down to ⅝ and ½ point, respectively. Other motors were little changed.

Steels also showed weakness in early trading. Assisting in their recovery was the American Iron and Steel institute's report of more than a 2 point stepup in production.

Bethlehem turned particularly strong, converting a half point loss into a gain of 1½. United States Steel whittled its loss from 1⅛ to ¼ point.

Farm equipment shares did better than average. International Harvester edged forward ¼ point, but J. I. Case was up 1 and Caterpillar Tractor gained ¾. Deere sagged ⅛.

For the first time in a week the chemicals lost their pep. Du Pont for the day. Dow Chemical dropped closed off ⅞, near its poorest level 1½. Union Carbide was off ¼. United Carbon held even.

The oils as a group also were weaker than the average, mostly because of declines of more than a point by Shell, Texas, and Skelly.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Price movements in the bond market today were mixed and trading volume was close to the lowest recorded so far this month. Lack of a definite trend was attributed to a slow and uncertain stock market and the absence of any news to stimulate activity on either the buying or selling side.

United States government loans made only a modest contribution to trading activity and closed 3-32ds higher to 3-32ds lower.

Declines were the rule in the foreign list. Heaviest losers included Montevideo 6s, down 5⅞, and Milan 6½s, down 1⅞.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks drifted a shade lower yesterday as the volume dropped to only 16,000 shares, compared with 28,000 on Friday. THE TRIBUNE averages of twenty stocks declined 0.06 to close at 11.14. Thirty-nine of the seventy-six issues traded declined, eighteen advanced, and nineteen were unchanged.

Rollins Hosiery, most actively traded issue, finished ⅛ lower at 2 on a volume of 1,800 shares. Bendix Aviation also slipped ⅛, closing at 23⅛. Great Lakes Dredge, however, advanced to a new 1938 high of 20¼, up ¾, holding this price at the close.

Bank Stocks.

Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company were the only gainers in quiet trading in Chicago bank stocks yesterday. American National stock climbed $10 to close at $215 bid, $230 asked. Shares of the Continental Illinois National closed 25 cents higher at $70.25 bid, $71.25 asked. Other leaders closed unchanged.

BUSINESS LOANS OF BANKS RISE 11 MILLION MORE

Total Outstanding Near Four Billion.

Loans made by banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture in the week ended Aug. 17 showed an increase of $11,000,000 over the preceding week. This was disclosed yesterday by the federal reserve board in its weekly report on member bank conditions.

This increase followed a rise of $24,000,000 made in the week ended Aug. 10 over the week ended Aug. 3. It is the only time this year that there has been two consecutive increases in such bank loans. The total outstanding is 3 billion 900 million dollars.

During the larger part of this year loans made by the member banks of the federal reserve system to commerce, industry, and agriculture have shown steady declines. But in the last six weeks the amount of the declines has been less pronounced.

Rises with Business Gain.

The gain in the amount of bank loans coincides with the improvement shown in general business in recent weeks. Generally, bank loans rise with active business and fall with declining business. The reason the rise with advancing business is that business men need money to finance their activities.

Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation some weeks ago issued a statement in which he indicated that if the banks did not increase credit facilities to business the government might enter this field. It is believed, however, that the improved showing being made in bank loans to business is more likely to be the result of the increasing business than to fear of Jones' threat.

In the latest advance in loans the banks in the New York federal reserve district increased them by $10,000,000 and the banks in the Chicago district increased their loans by $3,000,000. Declines by banks in other districts reduced the total gain.

I. C. C. APPROVES LOAN FROM RFC TO SOUTHERN RY.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission approved today the application of the Southern Railway company for a loan of $11,795,000 by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the extension of an RFC loan of $12,475,204 maturing Sept. 1.

The commission said that the company was not "in need of financial reorganization in the public interest at this time" and that it may reasonably "be expected to meet its fixed charges without reduction thereof through judicial reorganization."

The I. C. C. said the new loan will be used to meet bonded indebtedness maturing Sept. 1. The loan will be for five years and the extension for the same period, making the total indebtedness fall due on Sept. 1, 1943.

Sweden—III.

Sweden's labor and public works policies have probably contributed greatly to the degree of prosperity attained. Wages on public works were kept slightly below the levels prevailing in the same localities for the same kind of work. The whole program was planned so that it did not compete with private industry for skilled labor or prevent wage reductions where they were found to be too high.

Wages did not outrun production in Sweden during the upturn in business. The international labor office's index of real wages (purchasing power of wage earners) in 1936 showed that Swedish real wages per hour were 7 per cent above the 1929 level. In the United States in 1936 real wages were 23 per cent above their 1929 level.

By December, 1937, the index of industrial production in Sweden was 53 per cent above its 1929 average, but production in the United States was 30 per cent below the 1929 average. The relationship between these two sets of figures may not be cause and effect, but can they be dismissed as purely coincidental?

U. S. Collects Less Internal Revenue than in July, 1937

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—A drop of $25,647,809 in collections of internal revenue for last month from the total for July, 1937, was reported today by the bureau of internal revenue.

The decrease apparently reflected a drop in business, because excise taxes declined. Increases were shown in the social security taxes, the corporation income tax, the excess profits tax, and the so-called "unjust enrichment" tax.

The total for this first month of the present fiscal year was $350,425,767, against $376,073,576 for July, 1937. Of the amount collected $29,606,517 was brought in under the corporation income tax. This was approximately $900,000 more than in July last year.

Individuals Pay Less.

In contrast with this there was a drop in the collections of individual income taxes of more than $1,500,000. In July this year the tax from individual incomes totaled $11,999,146, against $13,756,340 in July, 1937. Excess profits taxes for July, with a total of $1,316,935, showed an increase of more than $500,000.

A decided drop was reported in the tax income from capital stock and estates. The capital stock total was $50,821,917, against $72,894,421 in July, 1937. Estate taxes amounted to $24,937,605, compared with $40,671,332 for July, 1937.

In spite of an increase in the tax on distilled spirits from $2 to $2.25, effective July 1, the month's returns showed a drop from $56,118,178 to $52,439,834.

Malt Liquors Yield Less.

There was a definite drop in taxes from the fermented malt liquors. A study of the stamp sales for the month reveals production was about a million barrels less than in July, 1937.

Against the decreases, the treasury was enriched during the month by $11,500,031 in railroad employment compensation taxes, compared with $24,476 in July, 1937, and by $61,026,438 under the social security act—the 2 per cent pay roll tax—as compared with $47,491,093 for the same period last year.

Business Bits

Two changes in the personnel of Butler Brothers were announced yesterday by R. M. Henry, general manager. John L. Meyers, Chicago assistant sales manager in charge of city sales, has been appointed to take charge of the firm's metropolitan sales in New York City. He will leave next week to take over his new post. George Douma, formerly in charge of Detroit area sales, has been brought to Chicago to take charge of city sales.

Carter H. Harrison & Co. announced the admission of Donald A. Gordon to general partnership in the firm and the acquisition of a branch office in La Crosse, Wis., formerly operated by Bartlett and Gordon, Inc. Gordon has been in charge of this office for ten years and will continue as its head.

"Chicagoland Coöperatives in Operation" will be the subject of an illustrated lecture to be given Friday evening by Marshall F. Goodhart at the Friday Night forum, 180 West Washington street. Goodhart is a director of the Consumers Coöperative service.

Problems now facing bank officers and employés will be discussed at the Indiana Bankers conference, to be held at Indiana university, Bloomington, Oct. 24 to 26. The conference, headed by Robert H. Myers, president of the Indiana Bankers association, is sponsored jointly by the association, the university, and the Indiana state department of financial institutions.

Kenneth H. Condit has been appointed executive assistant to Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the National Industrial Conference board. Condit was editor of the American Machinist for 17 years, was the first editor of Product Engineering, and now is retained as a consulting editor to both publications.

DOUBT MEXICO CAN PAY FOR OIL LANDS SEIZED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Foreign Policy association published the conclusion today that there seemed to be no possibility of Mexico being able to pay for the British and American owned oil properties it has expropriated.

In a report published by the association, a private research organization, Charles A. Thomson said that even if settlement were made upon the basis of the $100,000,000 valuation fixed by Mexico, the southern republic would have to use a tenth of its annual revenue to meet instalments on the debt. The writer explained that annual revenue for Mexico under the Cardenas administration was about $100,000,000.

"There seems no possibility of securing $10,000,000 or anything near it from Mexico's oil exports," Thomson added.

Southern Paper Company to Build Newsprint Mill

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Construction work on the proposed Texas newsprint mill will start in the near future, according to Ernest L. Kurth, president of the Southland Paper Mills, Inc., which will run the mill. It will cost $7,500,000 and have capacity of 50,000 tons of newsprint a year, he stated. All of the output has been contracted for by about twenty southern newspapers, according to Kurth. Kraft and other papers also will be manufactured.

July Income of Erie Road Is Smaller than Year Ago

Cleveland, O., Aug. 22. — (AP) — The Erie railroad reported today that July net operating income was $209,245, compared to $1,315,970 in July, 1937. For seven months the Erie showed a net operating deficit of $69,960, compared to a profit of $9,640,221 in the January-July, 1937, period. The net incomes reported are after taxes, but before fixed debt charges, many of which were suspended before the road went into reorganization last January.

New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States for the week ended Aug. 18 declined to 218 from 221 in the preceding period, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. In the corresponding 1937 week failures totaled 159.

U. S. SENDS NEW NOTE TO MEXICO ON LAND SEIZURE

Hull Acts After Talk with Envoy.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The United States delivered another note to Mexico today regarding that government's seizure of American owned farm lands. Secretary of State Hull sent it to Mexican Ambassador Francisco Najera after he had talked with the envoy for more than an hour earlier in the day.

State department officials refused to disclose the tenor of the note. They said it would be made public simultaneously here and in Mexico City Friday morning, allowing the ambassador time within which to send it by mail to his capital.

The note was a reply to the Mexican note handed to Ambassador Josephus Daniels on Aug. 3. Mexico in that note rejected the American proposal of July 21 for inter-American arbitration of the issue under the treaty of arbitration signed by the Latin American republics and the United States in 1929.

Mexico Rejects Demands.

Mexico's argument was that the United States was demanding treatment for Americans better than that given Mexicans by the Mexican government. The Mexican constitution provided for payment for expropriated lands in ten years, whereas the United States demanded prompt payment.

Mexico also stated she could see the need for international arbitration for cases of irreconcilable difference, but that the question of expropriation of agrarian lands could be settled by direct negotiations between the two countries. Directly involved in the dispute are approximately 1,000,000 acres of agrarian lands taken over since 1927. Moderate-sized farms alone are valued by their owners at $10,132,388. And involved indirectly, through precedents that may be set, are American-owned oil properties, valued unofficially at $150,000,000, which Mexico also has seized.

Mexico Revises Tariffs.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The government published new tarif schedules today raising rates on eleven articles and reducing those on 189 others to their 1937 level.

The increases included a 100 per cent boost in rates on larger type automobiles not included in an upward revision of levies on motor vehicles announced Aug. 15. The principal items on which reductions were made included iron and steel sheeting and piping, crude rubber, and medicines.

The Aug. 15 schedule reduced levies on 136 articles and raised them on five.

DISSOLUTION OF CHESAPEAKE IS NEAR VOTE

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Directors of Chesapeake corporation are expected to meet late this week to vote on the plan of dissolution of the corporation. It will then be presented to the stockholders.

Attorneys for the committee appointed to work out the dissolution plan have been in conference with the corporation's lawyers regarding the tax problems, which were the chief obstacle. Under instructions to cover every possible angle before reporting to the committee, it is believed that the attorneys are now ready to present a formula for the dissolution that can be carried through.

The question of a cash dividend on Chesapeake stock before dissolution is yet to be decided.

Soft Coal Output Higher, but Still Below Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—In the week ended Aug. 13 about 5,994,000 net tons of soft coal were mined in the United States, the National Bituminous Coal commission estimated today. This was a gain of 3.5 per cent over the preceding week and compares with a tonnage of 7,691,000 in the like week of 1937.

LOCKHEED PROFIT FALLS DESPITE SALES INCREASE

With net sales slipping 15.7 per cent from 1937 volume the Fair's net loss for the six months ended July 31 amounted to $172,541, compared with a loss of $6,260 in the corresponding six months of last year. Sales of $7,131,527 compared with $8,463,278.

Consolidated net profit of Chicago Pneumatic Tool in the June quarter amounted to $153,908. This compared with profit of $221,284 in the first quarter of this year and $440,321 in the second three months of 1937. The figures were exclusive of profits earned by certain foreign subsidiaries operating in companies having foreign exchange restrictions.

Pet Milk's net profit for the second quarter jumped to $415,057. This compared with a loss of $78,993 in the preceding three months and a profit of $255,515 in the second quarter of last year. Indicated profit for the six months was $336,064 against $219,006 in the 1937 first half.

Reports Larger Profit.

Mead Johnson had a consolidated net profit in the first half of the year of $762,193, or $4.26 a common share. In the first six months of last year profit was $736,187, or $4.10 a share.

Pan American Petroleum's net loss of $529,840 for the June quarter was in contrast to a profit of $1,676,438 in the second quarter of last year. Net income in the March quarter of this year was $866,340. The company said that certain changes in accounting in connection with advertising expense made the June quarter loss about $310,000 greater than it would have been under the old system. The changes, adopted Jan. 1, 1938, will have little effect on the profit or loss figures for the entire year, the company added.

Hecla Mining company, lead producer operating mines in Idaho, had a June quarter profit of $26,829 against $187,886 in the second three months of last year. For the first six months net income of $78,833 compared with $707,471 in the first half of 1937.

WHISKY OUTPUT DROPS SHARPLY IN LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—A marked decrease in the production of whisky in the twelve months ended June 30, 1938, was reported today by W. S. Alexander, federal alcohol administrator.

Whisky production averaged more than 20,000,000 gallons monthly in 1936, and dropped to 17,500,000 gallons in the first six months of 1937. During the last half of 1937 and the first six months of this year production dropped to an average of less than 9,000,000 gallons.

"This lower rate of production," Alexander said, "was reflected to some extent in the accumulation of whisky stocks in bonded warehouses, which on June 30, 1938, aggregated more than 470,000,000 gallons."

Production of Petroleum Increased by Venezuela

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Petroleum production in Venezuela during June totaled 2,410,315 metric tons, an increase of approximately 0.21 per cent over June, 1937, and 1.8 per cent over May, 1938, according to a report received by the department of commerce today from the American commercial attaché at Caracas. Exports of petroleum during June totaled 2,308,359 metric tons, including 1,451 tons of gasoline, an increase of 9.3 per cent over June, 1937, and of approximately 2.2 per cent over May, this year.

COTTON

Trading in cotton futures was small yesterday in American markets. Scattered hedging and foreign selling, combined with favorable weather in the south, resulted in increasing bearish sentiment. Active futures closed at net losses of .08 to .13 cent a pound.

The trade had rumors yesterday that a private estimate on the crop would be issued showing a prospective yield of 11,750,000 bales, or 350,000 bales in excess of an earlier report. Numerous reports were received on heavy weevil damage, especially in parts of Texas. Trading in cotton futures in Liverpool yesterday was reported the smallest of the season.

Spot cotton closed .10 cent lower, with New York, 8.30 cents; New Orleans, 8.25 cents; Houston, 8.20 cents, and Galveston, 8.15 cents unchanged. Prices follow:
